Senate Repeal of Embargo Conceded as Vote Nears

FOES BANK ON HOUSE BATTLE TO WIN CAUSE

Isolationists Admit Defeat in Upper Chamber During Vote This Week.

START HOUR EARLY

Barkley Gets Ready to Make New Effort to Curb Debate, Pave Way for Vote.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Isolationists conceded today that the administration would win their arms embargo repeal fight in the senate.

Their hope was that their compatriots in the house would defeat embargo repeal there.

They admitted their defeat in the senate privately, but planned a fight to amend the bill so as to protect the American military resources for the army and navy.

Confers With Leaders.

President Roosevelt returned from his week-end at Hyde Park and planned to confer, presumably this morning, with Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, (D., Ky.), Minority Leader Charles L. McNary, (R., Ore.), and Vice President John Nance Garner.

During previous sessions of congress, Mr. Roosevelt conferred with legislative leaders Monday mornings, but he has not conferred with them this session to emphasize the "hands-off" police of the White House in the executive debate.

Barkley called the senate to meet at 11 a. m., an hour earlier than usual, to begin the fourth, and possibly the last, week of debate on repeal. A vote may be reached late in the week.

Sen. William E. Borah, (R., Ida.) criticized Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, for what Borah said was his activity on behalf of repeal.

The isolationist senate fight is expected to be the preliminary to a closer vote in the house, which last session passed a modified neutrality bill which retained the arms embargo. Administration leaders in the lower chamber said privately that they have only a 20-vote majority.

In the senate an informal United Press poll gave the administration 61 votes, with 28 senators opposing and seven doubtful.

Barkley said he would make another effort today to obtain a limitation on debate in an effort to reach a final vote before Saturday.

CLIMBERS LOST

Three Missing After Climb of Hazardous Mt. Washington.

GORMAN, N. H. —(INS)— Two men and a woman were reported lost today following a climb of Mt. Washington by a party of eight.

The missing:

Anne Pearsall, and Edward Coughlin, both of Lowell, and Robert Vastaw, of Billerica, Mass.

The trio had been missing all night in a temperature of only 16 degrees above zero and with sharp winds blowing around the mountain, which rises 6,288 above sea level.

Five of the mountain climbers descended by the carriage road while the missing trio attempted the hazardous descent via the Buckerman's trail.

Indict Browder

EARL BROWDER

RED LEADER TO FACE CHARGES

Federal Jury Indicts Browder in Connection With Illegal Passport Statement.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist party in the United States, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on a charge of false application for a passport.

Browder was taken into custody immediately and arraigned before Federal Judge William Bondy. He pleaded innocent and was held in $10,000 bail. No date was set for a hearing.

The true bill was returned to Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey, who immediately recessed the grand jury for two hours.

The Communist leader testified Sept. 6 before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities that he had traveled in Europe within the last two years on a passport bearing a fictitious name.

At the same time of his appearance he declined to disclose the name he had used, standing on his constitutional right that such testimony might incriminate him.

He also testified other party members had traveled in Europe under fictitious passports because of the danger of using their real names since they were acknowledged Communists.

The indictemnt returned today contained two counts, each charging false application for a passport and the use of such passport.

The indictment said Browder applied for a passport on April 30, 1937, using the name of George Morris. He also obtained one Feb. 15, 1938, using the name of Nicholas Dozenberg.

The maximum penalty on conviction is a fine of $2,000 and a 5-year prison term or both on each count.

Browder arrived at the federal building shortly after the indictment was returned and was not aware of the grand jury's action until two detectives seized him in a corridor. He appeared surprised and angry.

The action of the federal authorities against Browder, a former candidate for the presidency on the Communist party ticket, followed a widening investigation into a fraudulent passport ring. It grew out of the notorious Robinson-Rubens passport fraud case.

JITTERBUG SOLDIER HURT

HIT BY AUTO MAN, 71, DIES FROM INJURIES

Pedestrian Who Lived Near Crestline Loses Life as He Walks Along Highway.

22ND COUNTY FATALITY

Car Driven by Shiloh Youth Overturns as He Tries to Avoid Accident.

Fatally injured about 8:30 p. m., Sunday when he was struck by a car as he walked along route 61 at Vernon Junction, Frank Freid, 71, of near Crestline, died two and a half hours later in Shelby Memorial hospital.

He was the 22nd county traffic victim this year and the sixth pedestrian killed by automobiles. At this time last year 19 persons had died in traffic accidents in the county.

Richland County's 1939 Traffic Toll

This date last year—19

Only one other person was injured in county traffic over the week-end, but at least 18 persons died in the state as ideal weather attracted thousands of motorists to the highways.

Driver Escapes Injury.

Driven by Frederick Fackler, 18, of Shiloh, the car which struck Freid skidded and turned over when Fackler attempted to avoid hitting the aged pedestrian. Neither Fackler nor his companion, Virgil Mumaw, of 9 Wood street, Mansfield, was hurt.

Attendants at the Shelby hospital where the injured man died about 11 p. m. said he received a fractured skull, crushed chest, fracture of both legs and lacerations on his face. He did not regain consciousness.

The Fackler youth, driving west, told state highway patrolmen that Freid was walking in the highway as the car came over a short hill and that he was unable to avoid hitting the aged man.

Walking Home.

Authorities said they were told Freid was walking from Shelby to his home near Crestline.

A native of Crawford county, Freid lived most of his life near Shelby. He is survived by two brothers, John of Shelby, and Amos of Crawford county, and a sister, Mrs. S. H. Knapp of Crestline.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Dick and Dye funeral home in Shelby with

ZANE GREY DIES

Noted Writer Stricken at Home in California.

ALTADENA, Calif.—(AP)—Zane Grey, noted writer and sportsman, died unexpectedly today at his home of a heart attack. He was 68.

Attending physicians said the author was suffering from coronary thrombosis and succumbed to a sudden seizure early this morning.

Grey attained fame and fortune through writing colorful novels of the west, most of which have been produced many times as motion pictures.

His hobby was deep sea fishing and he spent many months in recent years following this sport in the South seas.

Real Scottish Objective Of Nazi Bombers

Here is a general view of the Firth of Forth at the naval base of Rosyth, Scotland, where German planes are active. Destruction of this base would be a great feat, for it is one of England's greatest naval refitting depots. In foreground, left, is the aircraft carrier Ark Royal, which the Germans claimed they had sunk. Also seen is the submarine mother ship Forth, the destroyer Aurora, four submarines, and the sixth and seventh destroyer flotillas.

Dems Set Off First Political Fireworks

Beach Lashes At G. O. P. Mayoralty Candidate, Past Administration.

With the election only two weeks away, the Mansfield political scene was brightened today with the first fireworks of the belated municipal campaign.

Speaking at a Democratic meeting at Prospect park Saturday night, Atty. A. S. Beach, veteran campaigner, lashed at not only the Republican party, but its candidate for mayor, William J. Locke, and the administration of former Republican mayor, Earl A. McFarland.

He charged that McFarland's administration lacked "economy, efficiency and harmony," and asserted that Mansfield had repudiated the Republicans in the 1937 election and placed them on probation.

"They have been on probation for the past 21 months," Beach told his audience of 150, "and that probation should continue for at least another two years."

Jabbing at Locke, Mayor Claude M. Hunter's opponent, Beach said:

"We note that his name appears in the city directory for the first time in 1930, but what about any of the candidates on the Democratic ticket?"

He recounted the years of experience in city government that the Democratic candidates possessed and said that each was a long-time resident of the city.

Beach said that in 1937 the Locke Makes First Talk of Campaign At Rally This Evening.

Republicans will open their municipal campaign at a rally at the Brinkerhoff school at 7:30 p. m. today when William J. Locke, candidate for mayor, is scheduled to make his first talk of the campaign.

"I have been making a study of some of the city's problems and I'm going to start telling the public about my platform tonight," Locke said.

Also scheduled to speak is Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, a candidate for re-election. The meeting will be in charge of Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, G. O. P. campaign chairman.

Locke said he will reveal the highlights of his platform at the eight rallies scheduled by the Republicans in all sections of the city during the final two weeks of the campaign.

So far in the campaign, Locke has confined his activity to house-to-house calls and personal contacts with voters, while the G. O. P. organization has worked on registrations and a "get-out-the-vote" drive.

Tonight's meeting will be in the second ward where Republicans usually poll their largest vote in the city. Party leaders will carry the campaign next to Prospect park in the southern part of the city where a rally is set for Tuesday night. Others will follow this week at North Lake park Wednesday night and the West Fifth street school Thursday night.

JURY SELECTED

Trial Underway For Dayton Man Accused of Killing Ex-Wife.

SPRINGFIELD, O. — (INS) — A jury was being selected today to hear first degree murder accusations against James Wendell Buckner, 26, of Dayton, who was charged with the fatal shooting of his 23-year-old former wife, Virginia Glover Buckner.

First witnesses were to be called tomorrow or Wednesday. The accused man allegedly shot and killed his former mate in the bedroom of her home May 31.

JEWS HIT AGAIN

Property Tax In Germany Raised To 25 Per Cent By Hitler.

BERLIN—(INS)—Germany today increased the fine levelled on the Jewish population of the Reich in reprisal for the killing of Ernst Von Rath, Nazi diplomat, by a Polish Jew in Paris last fall.

The levy was increased from 20 to 25 per cent of total Jewish property and holdings. The boost resulted from discovery of Jewish possessions totalling almost 5,000,000,000 marks.

WINTER FLOODS AIDING FRENCH

'Guerrilla' Warfare Patrols Seeking to Chart Enemy Positions Clash.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Early winter floods aided France's "super-guerrilla" war against Germany as the opposing armies settled down today in the approximate positions they occupied at the outbreak of hostilities.

The French, having relinquished virtually all positions on German soil seized in the first seven weeks of the war, indicated their tactics were aimed at sapping Germany's civilian morale, while avoiding "needless" sacrifice of their troops.

The only type of action now being waged on the fornt, they said, consists of a kind of "guerrilla" warfare involving skirmishes by patrols constantly seeking to chart enemy positions.

Apparently pointing to a continued lack of large scale military activity was a war ministry announcement that beginning Nov. 1 men with France's armed forces would be granted 10 days leave for every four months of service.

An extra three days was prom-

Super-Explosive Nazis Use Was U.S. Invention, Claim

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(INS)—An American invention, atomite, was revealed today as the mysterious super-explosive used by Nationalist bombing planes during the close of the Spanish war and by Germany to destroy Warsaw and the supposedly invulnerable British dreadnaught Royal Oak and the Aircraft carrier Courageous.

In making the revelation, M. T. Vanderslice, San Francisco manufacturer, said Germany bought the secret and he knows no other explosive as powerful.

Vanderslice, who said he is fiscal agent for the invention, declared atomite is to be made available to the British, although the ordnance department of the United States army controls atomite in this country, according to Vanderslice, there is nothing to prevent the sale of the formula.

Atomite was developed five years ago in Berkeley, (Cal.) by two inventors named Hawk and McCloud and perfected with the aid of university engineers and chemists.

FARMER KILLED

WOOSTER —(INS)— Henry Bevington, 55, farmer of near Wooster, was killed today when his team of horses and wagon were struck by a bread truck.

The truck was attempting to pass the wagon at the top of a hill when the collision occurred two miles east of Wooster on U. S. route 30. Bevington's body was lodged under one of his horses, which also was dead, when officers arrived.

Negotiations on Soviet Demands Nearing Climax

Observers Believe Reds Modify Early Requests On Finland; 'Important Announcement' Due In Moscow, Helsingfors, Newsmen Told.

(By United Press)

HELSINGFORS—A foreign office press conference, called for seven o'clock tonight, was postponed until 10 p. m. indicating, observers believed, that important developments were expected in Finnish-Soviet negotiations at Moscow.

Ten o'clock in Helsingfors is 11 p. m. in Moscow, an hour when important announcements usually are made by the Russians.

There was a general feeling of optimism in Helsingfors as climactic negotiations between Finns and Russians proceeded at the Kremlin in Moscow. But precautionary Finnish measures continued throughout the country.

"We remain calm," was the only official announcement as results of the postponed foreign office press conference were awaited.

Dispatches from Moscow indicated Russia was willing to accept moderate concessions from Finland in its drive to secure its position in the upper Baltic. Finnish delegates returned to Moscow today to resume negotiations.

Wants 3 Islands.

Well informed sources said that, in contrast to its demands on Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania, Russia would make no bid for bases on the Finnish mainland or for a "mutual assistance" pact but would be content with the cession of three small islands off the Kronstadt naval base — islands which, it is believed, Finland may be willing to cede as of no value to her but of great value to Russia.

Russia was believed also to desire an agreement that the Aaland Islands at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia between Finland and Sweden, should remain in their present unfortified state.

Political quarters suggested that Russia might attach considerable weight to the interest shown in Finland by the United States and the Scandinavian countries.

Also, as regards demands on Finland, Russia now, through the concessions exacted from other Baltic republics, has made its position much stronger.

Demand Held Secret.

Both Finnish and Russian official quarters remained tight-lipped regarding the nature of Russia's demands. But it had been indicated that Finland regarded the Russian proposals as sufficiently moderate to permit discussion.

Forbidden zones were established for strategic reasons over extensive areas of Finland.

The forbidden zones included the Karelian peninsula south of Viborg, opposite Lake Ladoga and Russian Leningrad; the northern zone extending up to Lapland, and the southwestern coastline, including the Aaland Islands.

All the areas were put under control of military authorities.

Finland's last reserves drilled in the streets, ready to join the colors. There were no able-bodied men left in the country who were not either in the army or prepared to joint it. There were insufficient uniforms and many

AT HOME: Nazi Propagandists Busy, British Set For 'Real War'

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Germany's political army—the Nazi party—set out today to further consolidate the "home front," now that the first phase of the war in the west is completed.

There were no indications of how long Germany expected the armed conflict with Britain and France to last, but in preliminary meetings of party organizers the possibility was considered that the war may last months, even years.

The high command's daily communique again was brief. It reported only artillery and reconnoitering activity on the western front during the last 24 hours, and said a tri-motored British plane had been sighted Saturday over Konzen 15 miles from Aachen.

When foreign correspondents inquired why no mention was made in the communique of a mine disaster to a German patrol boat in the Baltic sea Saturday and of an engagement between German planes and British vessels and planes off Scotland the same day, an authoritative reply was given that "these matters are still under investigation."

(A dispatch from Copenhagen said Danish fishing boats had picked up bodies of 29 men from the German minefield guardship Este 7. Five survivors were reported to have said the vessel carried a crew of 46, many of whom they said were killed in the explosion which sank the ship.

(The British claimed to have brought down four German planes which participated in an attack on

AIR ALARMS: Sirens Wail In Scotland, Two British Ships Sink

LONDON — (AP) — An air raid warning was sounded over the Firth of Forth area of Scotland today but was cancelled shortly later.

The "all clear" was sounded 15 minutes after the alarm had been lifted about noon (6 a. m. EST) in other regions of southeast Scotland.

Nothing but the bare announcements concerning the alarms was known immediately of the latest menace of Nazi bombers.

The persistence of the German flights over the North sea toward vital British seaports and naval bases is considered by flying students as a form of feeling out the British defenses.

These were believed by many to be double-edged forays having the purpose of spreading anxiety and mapping objectives more precisely for a wave of larger raids to come.

Earlier today the sinking of two British vessels was disclosed with a total of at least 14 persons missing and 30 survivors accounted for.

Fourteen crew members of the 1,692-ton steamer Whitemantle were missing and five survivors landed at an east coast port. Cause of the Whitemantle's sinking in the North sea, was not given.

The 2,327-ton coastal vessel Sea Venture was disclosed to have sunk after an explosion. Its crew of 25 landed on an island.

Mercenery Mates Cause Troubles

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It's a queer coincidence, but today's paper prints separate stories concerning paralleled cases of mercenary husbands and wives. A Chicago girl, whose picture proves she is highly attractive, is obtaining a divorce from her husband and makes the following complaint:

"He did not spend the money I earned for us as a stenographer the way he was supposed to. And he wouldn't account for money or bills, and even tried to charge his clothes to my account."

The husband, it seemed, was out of work, and kept house while his wife worked as a stenographer and earned the bacon.

In an adjacent city, three judges ruled that a 28-year-old wife married her husband with "mercenary intentions" and denied her plea for a support order.

This husband, who is 41 years old, was what is known as well-to-do. His parents left him $200,000 in trust and he was married a years ago to the lady who is suing him for separate maintenance. They were married in Maryland, but never lived together, according to the testimony.

The wife had asked permission to live with her husband and at the same time "receive separate maintenance support."

This contradiction in terms might puzzle the wisdom of Solomon, and the three judges threw it out of court.

Here is another case which has not, as yet, got into the courts. A woman writes to this column concerning a husband who's a live wire when it comes to scouting out fun or amusement but who goes dead when it's a question of looking for a job:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I'm married to one of those men who is well described as being 'the life of the party.' He will spend hours getting up private theatricals or going fishing. And he'll drive anyone's car anywhere on errands. But would he take a job as a chauffeur? Never!

"For years I have tried to delude myself that he would do better, for I loved him devotedly when we were married, and he had great plans for a successful life. But the truth has been forced upon me that he's just plain lazy, and that I cannot continue to be his wife and keep my self-respect.

"I hate the publicity and general messiness of divorce and I hate the idea, if I turn him out, he'll probably spend his time on a park bench and have no place to go in bad weather. And yet, why should I slave to support a perfectly healthy man who is only 34 years of age? QUESTION."

Perhaps this grim old world is turning over, and the next phase will be that wives will take it for granted and support husbands. For countless ages, it's been the other way around, and husbands have supported silly, foolish women who have contributed nothing to the general welfare either as wives or mothers.

Throughout this lady's letter, which is too long to print, I have discovered a sneaking affection for this lazy-bones not yet 35 years of age. And if she is going to stay awake nights worrying about him, sitting on a park bench in the rain, it might be just as well to continue supporting him.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Is Mr Graham there?" I asked. "This is Mrs. Graham."

A long half minute later it came again, this time so heavily disguised that the vaguely familiar nuance I had noticed before was wholly absent

"Mr. Graham is not here," it said in tones so low that I could scarcely hear them. "Is — is — he planning to come here tonight?"

"I do not know," I said, "but it is entirely possible that he will come there sometime this evening. But I do know that—other—people are planning to come to the office tonight in search of Mr. Graham. May I ask who you are, and what you are doing in the office at this hour?"

"Why do you ask me that?" it asked.

"I do not know," I said slowly, "nor do I know why I have warned you that you may be discovered in the office. But I do not expect you to answer, so good-bye—"

"Wait a second!" The appeal was frantic, but she did not forget to disguise her voice. "I do thank you for warning me, and I can assure you I am not doing any harm here. Instead, I think I can do you and your husband a service if I stay a few minutes longer. When will those people be here?"

"I cannot tell you," I said, and then there was a frantic whisper.

"There's somebody coming," it said. "I'm hiding. Call me again in half an hour. If I can, I'll answer."

But the whole episode "gave me to think" during the next half-hour that she had named. It provided me with a bit of distraction to offset, in part, my increasing anxiety over Dicky's non-appearance. And when the half-hour was up, I fairly leaped for the telephone.

This time there was no delay in the answer. I surmised that my unknown listener had been close to the telephone, waiting for the call.

"Who is this?" she whispered.

"Mrs. Graham," I answered. "You told me to call you."

"Yes, I did," she said, "and I have news for you. They came, and they did not know I was here, so I was able to listen and find out some things. Please tell your husband this from me. If he goes outside his door tomorrow night, he must have a guard with him and be prepared for trouble. Also tell him that he has a friend at court. Will you tell him that?"

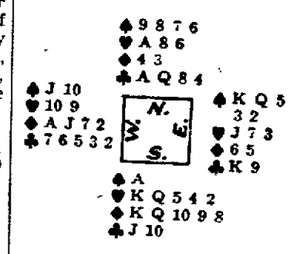
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOW EQUAL LENGTH

WITH TWO five-card suits, such as Spades and Hearts, Hearts and Diamonds, or Diamonds and Clubs, your first bid should invariably be the higher ranking one. To show the lower ranking suit first and then the higher is to indicate that the lower one is longer and the higher, therefore, shorter. Most of the time such bidding proclaims only a four-card holding in the suit you bid second, and warns your partner not to risk a raise unless he has four cards himself.



(Dealer. South. "North-South vulnerable.)

Here is a rubber deal on which South saw fit to open with 1-Diamond because the suit was a little stronger than the hearts. Later he regretted his tactical error. North answered with 2-Clubs. Then East stuck in 2-Spades. South now realized that his original diamond bid had put him in an awkward situation. The best he could do was to bid 3-Hearts.

North realized the logic of this "reverse" bid as an almost absolute force, but could not find a sound way to answer. To raise what seemed like a four-card suit while holding only three hearts was not good. A diamond raise seemed out of the question, also a re-bid of the four-card club suit, and 3-No Trumps did not seem reasonable without a spade stopper. So he passed and a game was missed.

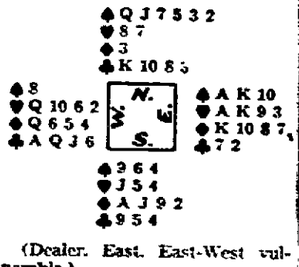
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. East. East-West vulnerable.)

How should the bidding on this deal differ at rubber bridge and at duplicate?

Kitchen Hints

Jellied ham salad with horseradish sauce is a grand combination for a buffet supper or luncheon. To make the sauce, mix 2 tablespoons grated horseradish, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika and ⅔ cup whipped cream. This will serve six.

A tart lemon filling is delicious between two baked layers of yellow, white or spice cake. Here's a good recipe: Mix 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind, a speck of salt and 1½ cups confectioner's sugar. Beat until creamy.

Here is a grand find for the tea table: Stuff seeded dates with small bits of pineapple, roll the dates in sugar and place them on 1½ inch squares of pastry dough. Fold the pastry over the dates and pinch it in place. Prick with a fork. Bake 8 minutes in a moderate oven.

Spiced blueberry jam makes a delicious spread for hot, buttered pancakes. Currant and raspberry jams are also good.

Equal portions of chopped cooked ham and white or cottage cheese, blended with savory seasonings (green peppers, onions, pimientos, sweet pickles) and pressed into a loaf dish makes a delicious salad. Cut in thin slices and arrange on crisp lettuce. Pass salad dressing. Thin slices of this mixture also make a fine filling for sandwiches.

Tea leaves moistened with vinegar will remove stains from flower vases. If the stains are hard to reach, fill the vase with a tea leaf-vinegar solution and soak it over night. Rinse out, wash in warm soapy water.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, October 24.

ACCORDING to the lunar transits, this should be a particularly lively and thrilling day, with much stirring in business, intellectual pursuits and in the social and affectional life. There may be surprises or suddenly precipitated events to make this a romantic and memorable time, but there are indications of running counter to the desires and objectives of superiors or employers.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively, progressive and eventful year, with much thrilling adventure in the private as well as the cultural life. All pertaining to art and writings should flourish, and affectional relations may prove of dramatic interest because of sudden and unpredictabie developments. There is hint of opposition from elders, superiors or employers.

A child born on this day may be creative, versatile and original in all artistic, cultural and intellectual expressions, with much inspiration and intuition being reflected in its work.

CHAPTER VI

Stanton quickly got in the car beside the astonished Rita.

She gasped out, "But Stanton—How did you happen to be here?"

"Oh, I had to get out of another tight spot. It's tough riding in the trunk compartment of any car—and yours is undersized." He turned on the ignition.

"The trunk! You weren't in there—really?"

"From the way my leg is acting, I'm sure of it. I'll be paralyzed for life if I keep this up. That time in the Frost garden, you remember, it gave me quite a turn."

She laughed a little nervously. This man! What would he do next?

"You started out with me in your trunk this morning. I climbed out at the Willet's when no one was looking, lunched with the other chauffeurs, and was lucky at poker afterward. When I figured it was time you'd be leaving, I sneaked back into the trunk again. But the ventilation was poor—and I'm afraid my uniform is wrecked."

* * *

She swallowed quickly, wondered why she couldn't be furious at him.

Suddenly the humor of the situation struck her full force and she burst into laughter. Stanton's laugh abruptly joined hers, then was as quickly checked.

"Sorry, Miss Rhodes," he said soberly, "I forgot myself again," and began backing the car down the drive.

Rita made no comment. Let him think himself slightly out of line, she thought. It might do him good.

They turned on to the main road and she saw the erstwhile cocky Bob limping toward the corner. Perhaps he had learned some sort of lesson from tonight's experience, but she doubted it.

They drove along in silence a few blocks, the cool night air pleasant on Rita's hot cheeks. The silver moon was coming up, reflecting a peculiar light on the foothills, making their dark steeps gray—black in spots, intensifying their awesome solidity. She gave a quick glance at the clean-cut profile of the man beside her.

Her breath quickened. She managed softly, "Stanton—why did you do it?"

His gaze was fastened straight ahead on the road. Finally, he said seriously, "If you'll excuse me, Miss Rhodes, I won't explain fully just now. Later, I'll tell you things that will surprise you. But I'll say this much—since overhearing what I did at the Frost masquerade party—please forgive me for bringing it up—I've appointed myself a committee of one to look after you."

"Why—of all the nonsense! Of course, it's—it's nice of you, Stanton, and I appreciate what you did tonight. But it's quite unnecessary for me to have a bodyguard. At least, you might tell me what all this mystery is!"

"It's—well—off the record at present."

"You said you needed this job—and now you're jeopardizing it by being obstinate. It doesn't add up," she told him, her anger rising.

She was close to tears. But if he noticed the tremor in her voice, he ignored it. He only remarked irrelevantly, "You can get the best barbecued sandwiches in the state at that stand up ahead—by those lights."

She opened her mouth to speak, closed it again. She tried to peer up into his face, but they were now riding along a dark stretch of road and for the instant there were no oncoming headlights to detail his features. She was trembling, she was furious, and filled with uncertainty. This was the first chauffeur she had ever encountered who did not pretend at least to accede to her slightest request. And for some unaccountable reason she was allowing him to get away with it. She excused this by thinking she was only letting him slide to the end of his rope—come to earth with a thud. Somehow, in the midst of it, she would get at the bottom of this mystery.

They soon came to the blinking red and blue neon signs by the barbecue stand. Without hesitation, Stanton swung the car across the road and up beside the fragrant open stone pits. Several other cars were parked nearby, their occupants patiently waiting to be served. There was nothing incriminating about being seen here. The customers were quite orderly, quite respectable.

* * *

Suddenly, all this became a lark to Rita. This was high adventure, racy excitement. Habit and accident of birth had made her too supercilious. Now, she was a member of the common horde, no better than any one else. This was living!

So she made no protest when Stanton got out, slamming the door behind him. She watched his tall trim figure go confidently up to the stand. He had such a purposeful air, making her nearly proud of him. But—who and what was he? Surely, no ordinary man—yet he had come to her out of the nowhere. He never mentioned his past, but he seemed to be up to something which closely concerned her. Should she be frightened? If he meant her harm, would he have let her know, even in a fragmentary sort of way, that what concerned her hovered in the back of his mind?

The cool fresh smell of the night mingled with fishy ocean odors, with the tempting aroma from sizzling pork and beef. Unwittingly, confidence in the rightness of this man oozed through her like a benediction, nearly laying her uncertainty to rest.

4 Babies Strangled as Steam Fills Hospital Nursery

VALVE BREAKS, FLOODS ROOM WITH VAPORS

Two Others Survive After Nurse Discovers Mishap, Sounds Alarm.

(By International News Service)

PERTH AMBOY, N. J.—Four babies died today.

Four tiny humans only recently arrived in the world died with their little red fists clenched, gasping for breath as live steam from a damaged radiator flooded the nursery of Perth Amboy General hospital.

No one could foretell that the valve controlling the radiator would blow off, that great clouds of steam would rise to the ceiling, then drop lower and lower until cribs were lost in the white mist and little lungs strained for air.

And so four babies died, four homes are saddened.

There was the four-day-old son of Sergt. John Rigg of the U. S. army, stationed at Raritan arsenal. There was the five-day-old daughter of Stanley Ruszala, the eight-day-old son of Edward Jankowski of Woodbridge and the month-old daughter of Josephine Steck.

None of the babies had been named.

Two Infants Survive.

There were six babies in the nursery when the accident occurred.

Two survived, but there was no spark of life in the other four tiny bodies over which surgeons and nurses worked frantically with respirators and tanks of raw oxygen.

Life is a long time in the making, death is often sudden and tragic. It was like that in this case.

Only a short time before, a nurse had looked in on the babies. Four were sleeping then, smiling in their slumbers—"talking with the angels" the old wives would tell you.

Two were awake and making those happy gurgling sounds which to a mother are the nearest thing to heavenly music on earth.

Everything was in order then. The nursery was warm and cozy, the early morning sun was at the windows. It was a good day to live.

Not more than a half hour later, the nurse passed the nursery again and glanced casually in through the glass panel. But there was nothing to see—nothing except the white mist of steam which covered the panel, hid objects — and babies — from view.

Horrified, she tore open the door and the steam rolled out, wet and sticky.

Hastily, the six cribs were rolled across the hall, the hospital staff summoned and emergency treatment began but it was all too late.

The fish fry promised the Shelby fire department by Fireman Edward Lysinger will have to be delayed for a time as two fish—a small perch and a crappie, aren't enough for such an occasion. Lysinger spent an entire day along Lake Erie attempting to land enough fish for the fry. His excuse was that he was using river minnows for bait instead of the lake variety, but his fellow firemen have not been convinced.

R. B. "Mad" Gardner, recently elected state commander of the American Legion, is learning that one of the principal duties of his job is to be a public speaker. Gardner has made two or three speeches a week since his election and this week he is scheduled to make two radio talks against the Bigelow pension plan. They will be over WGAR, Cleveland, at 10 p. m. Wednesday, and over WLW, Cincinnati, at 6:30 p. m. Saturday. A third radio address will be given over WBNS, Columbus, Nov. 4, at 6:30 p. m.

Firemen at Central station in the city building feasted on bear meat today. The meal was just a sample of what Harvey Dickson, market proprietor, and Fireman R. C. Underwood will have in the weeks to come. Dickson and Underwood returned last week from a two-week hunting trip in northern Quebec with three bears and two deer.

* * *

When a large hog and 11 little pigs disappeared from the Ira Snyder farm near Shelby a few days ago, Snyder thought they had been stolen. But just to make sure, he looked into an old well near the barn. In the bottom of the shallow well, dry because of the drought, were the pigs with their mother, as contented as if they were in their pen. Snyder believes the sow fell through the cover on the well, and the pigs, hearing her squeal, jumped in after her.

COUNTY ROADS IN BEST SHAPE IN YEARS FOR WINTER, SWORD SAYS

Richland county's roads are ready for winter and they enter the season in better condition than at any time in recent years, County Engineer Howard C. Sword said today.

"Our road program for the year will be completed this week, and I know the county roads generally are in better shape to stand up under winter conditions than they have been in at least seven years," the engineer reported.

Winter is the worst season for unpaved roads and thousands of dollars damage usually results every year from heavy traffic over thinly-surfaced roads when the road base has been softened by freezing and thawing.

When approximately one mile of secondary road in Plymouth township is graded this week, the county's extensive road construction and repairing will be complete for the year, Sword said.

Most important unit in the county road program for the year was the resurfacing of about 30 miles of heavily traveled roads at a cost of nearly $70,000.

In addition to the resurfacing job, a number of bridges were built and scores of miles of secondary roads were graded and improved during the past spring and summer.

MORE DRILLS

Battery D Holds 2 Sessions Weekly Under New Orders.

Battery D of the 134th Field Artillery, Mansfield's unit of the Ohio National Guard, will begin twice-a-week drills starting this week, according to Capt. Robert J. Nichols, commanding officer.

Orders to increase the number of drills came from Adj. Gen Gilson D. Light. Battery D meets tomorrow night at the armory when the time for the second weekly drill will be set.

Capt. Nichols said the Mansfield unit also will join in a statewide test mobilization next month, probably Nov. 11, Armistice Day.

There are 71 members now in the Mansfield battery, four short of the full peace-time strength. Applications for these vacancies will be taken at the armory tomorrow. Capt. Nichols said the unit was particularly anxious to enlist a bugler.

31 ENROLLED

Teachers Have Until Nov. 2 To Sign Up For University Classes.

Thirty-one teachers in the Mansfield area had enrolled today for the Kent State university extension courses offered weekly in Mansfield.

Others are expected to enroll for the training before the registration deadline Nov. 2. Classes in geography, economics and sociology are conducted each Thursday at 4:30 and 7:00 p. m. at the Mansfield Public library by instructors from Kent State university.

Completion of the courses offered here gives the teacher the equivalent of six hours college credit.

3 OTHERS CITED ON RECKLESS DRIVING COUNTS

Testimony Reveals Some Were Operating Cars From 60 to 90 Miles an Hour.

Following closely on the heels of a fatal accident on U. S. route 42, northeast of Mansfield last week, state highway patrolmen over the week-end arrested 10 drivers on charges of careless and reckless driving.

While they declined to admit that a campaign against speeding had been launched as the result of the accident, records show that seven of the motorists had been arrested for careless operation of their cars on the new cut-off on route 42 where a truck driver was burned to death last Friday in a collison.

Testimony in court today revealed that at least six of the drivers were operating their autobiles at speeds ranging from 60 to 90 miles an hour in the vicinity of the accident scene.

Evidence that a constant check is being maintained over the new section of road between Mansfield and Ashland was attested by the fact that squad cars have been in that vicinity almost constantly since the fatal accident last Friday.

6 Drivers Fined.

Of the 10 drivers cited to appear in court today, six were fined, three of whom lost their driving rights, three cases were continued while the tenth forfeited an appearance bond.

The six fined $10 and costs each were Caroline Skidmore, 34, Geneva; Harry Wineland, 26, of 225 South Mulberry street; P. D. Ziegler, Mt. Gilead; Doyle Dewalt, 26, Galion; Everett Shipman, Shelby, and Earl R. Griffith, R. D. 5, Mansfield.

Miss Skidmore lost her driving rights for 30 days and Griffith and Shipman had their operator's permits suspended for 15 days each.

Henry E. Rhode, Cleveland, forfeited a $25 bond when he failed to appear in court to answer the charges.

Those whose cases were continued and who were released after posting bond were Ruby Claybaugh, 26, Cleveland, who will be arraigned tomorrow; William T. Hubbes, Cleveland, and Donald F. Kinsell, Shelby, both of whom are scheduled to appear Saturday.

Griffith was arrested on route 13; Wineland on U. S. route 30S, and Kinsell on route 39, north of Mansfield.

Ashland Grand Jury Launches Perjury Investigation.

ASHLAND—The special session grand jury re-convened today after several days recess to hear four witnesses who were summoned in connection with the investigation of alleged "wide spread perjury" in the county, asked by Judge H. E. Culbertson two weeks ago.

Two witnesses were from this vicinity. Also called were Thomas Hogne and Joseph Mone, both of Brunswick, near Cleveland.

Judge Culbertson said in charging of perjury, that he had been told that Robert S. Greenlun, state highway employe who was discharged from the service on affidavits signed by two officials from Brunswick, had been instrumental in breaking up a speed trap at that village. The judge asked that the grand jury investigate this rumor, in view of the fact that Greenlun later was reinstated after he had appealed his case.

A. Ross Siverling, prosecuting attorney, today refused to reveal the occupation of the two witnesses from Brunswick. He said that there probably would be three other witnesses called before the grand jury finished its hearing.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Fakers Still Making Big Profits From Medicines Peddled to the Ailing

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

CLEVELAND—In other days, say about 25 years ago, the most reliable ways to make a lot of money with the least effort and ingenuity were to get out a patent medicine or start a religion.

A truly miraculous remedy for stomach troubles could be made for a few cents a gallon out of bismuth, rhubarb and tap water and would retail at 75 cents a bottle, and medicine fakers received bushels, literally, of hand-written testimonials from grateful Americans who thought some marvelous discovery had cured them of cancer, among other ills, and joyously reported that they could now eat fried pork without distress. That was truly the golden age of American medicine.

Some of the remedies were pretty good, at that, being made according to old standard doctors' formulas, but the government and many of the newspapers gradually silenced the claims made for most internal medicines, and the field is now pretty well abandoned, although a few rich veins are still paying big profits.

* * *

Religion, however, is still open to the freest exploitation, and politics has taken the place of medicine, so there are still two fields of opportunity for men and women of the proper genius.

They can be worked separately, but it is being shown that they can be combined very effectively to the great profit of a professional God-man or great loving spirit under the very special protection of the United States constitution.

There is still a temptation to carry on healing, through faith, incantations and laying on of hands, but that is likely to be a troublesome sideline and not worth the bother. The law is peculiar about miracle working in matters of physical illness, but the constitution says that congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

That phrase can be invoked to deter interference with the most dangerous fakery and, in conjunction with the revenue act, seal the accounts of a racketeer against inspection by the income tax department.

* * *

To interfere with a fraud in his preaching is to persecute him for his religious faith and martyrize him.

However idiotic, vicious and fraudulent his claims to divine credentials, the authorities, remembering the absurdity of Joseph Smith's hallucinations and the trouble that was caused by attempts to suppress him, are inclined to let him play his suckers until they run out of money or drift on, wild-eyed and slobbering, after some new prophet.

There are no people more religious, or, rather, more susceptible to religious nonsense than the Americans, and they have waves or spells in which, baffled by problems and excited by debate, they tend to go crazy in herds.

At such times—and this seems to be the beginning of a spell—hot-eyed demagogues, including rogues of the most wicked cynicism, come bawling out of the mists of superstition and fear and hypnotize weak souls with strong words.

* * *

The radio vastly extends their radius much as though the spitting cobra, which ordinarily can spray its venom only a few feet, by some discovery intended for the benefit of man, suddenly were enabled to poison victims a thousand miles away.

European peoples, Orientals, even savages—all of whom, God knows, have had more troubles and much more terrible ones—do not respond to such appeals as periodically drug the vaunted common sense of countless Americans and set them to braying, burning and temporarily believing the most infantile.

Hitlerism, with its nonsense about the Aryan race and the mysterious spiritual quality of the German soil, is a great exception, but the lunacy of those Germans who do subscribe to this madness may be attributed to a far more trying experience, lasting many years, than anything the Americans have suffered. The Italians were ordered to believe themselves Aryan and laughed aloud.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Dancing Vera Zorina came out in meeting and biffed the notion that dancing boys are sissies, said the lads are better he-men than most wrestlers and pugilists because the dancers have to train constantly, the athletic pugs only periodically.

She didn't, but could have, cited ex-chorus boys Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien, one-time female impersonator Wallace Beery.

Bulletin: There's a beard on the Warner lot, and Paul Muni is NOT behind it. Edward G. Robinson wears it for "Dr. Ehrlich," the film biography of the scientist who found a cure for that unmentionable disease: syphilis.

Spencer Tracy has as many historical roles behind him now as Muni, who did "Pasteur," "Zola" and "Juarez" but Muni is still two up on Tracy in the beard department, three up in the make-up department. Tracy's Father Flanagan, Henry M. Stanley, and Major Robert Rogers (in "Northwest Passage") all look like Tracy.

* * *

There has been a lot of kidding about movie actors who plunge into historical or biographical roles too blithely, but it's just kidding and nothing else. Richard Dix was a Sam Houston fan, and read everything he could find on the man, before he was even asked to play "Man of Conquest." Norma Shearer was cramming on Marie Antoinette and her times for two years before the picture began. Muni studies and bones on his characters so intensively that he practically ceases to be Muni in private life. Anna Neagle did quite a stint of personal research on Edith Cavell, and collected documents and letters to give her portrait the inner life it has. And Tracy, who could never be charged with affectation, virtually memorized "Northwest Passage" and steeped himself in biographical material on Rogers. Bette Davis works out her characterizations the same way—witness her recent triumph as Queen Elizabeth.

All of which is one explanation for the comparative tameness of Hollywood night life now. In the days of wilder and better parties, a star could report on the set fully confident that a paternal director would guide his every gesture.

* * *

It may mean a return to slapstick shorts and it may not, but after the pie-and-chase sequences in "Hollywood Cavalcade" RKO announced it was taking on Harry Langdon for a two-reeler. Town was surprised when it laughed at those slapstick sequences in the movie about the movies, but why—since the whole country laughed a couple of seasons back when the big stars were being sillies like that in features of the zany cycle.

There is bound to be speculation as to the characters "intended" in the leads of "Hollywood Cavalcade," but the guessing might as well stop now. Don Ameche as the director is all the directors of the era—a touch of Sennett (slapstick, bathing beauties, Keystone Kops), and a touch of Griffith (the spectacle-maker), plus nuances suggesting a score of others. And the romantic story could have happened, but never did precisely.

WRESTLING followers will not be deprived of their favorite sport this fall and winter.

"Tim" Nolan was a Mansfield visitor the other afternoon, and the rotund mat impressario intends to start operations at an arena yet to be selected within a week or two.

There is a possibility that Nolan will alternate his weekly sports shows with wrestling and boxing, but nothing definite has been arranged.

Nolan realizes that it will be difficult to revive boxing without home town talent, and the boxing project may fall through if the city's topnotch amateurs do not lend a willing ear to his offers.

Simmons Candidate For Hall of Fame.

A MIGHTY man in his heyday, Al Simmons, released this week by the Reds, is another strong candidate for baseball's hall of fame. The lowest that "foot-in-the-bucket" Al hit in his eight big seasons with the Athletics was .308, and that was in his first year. He followed with successive averages of .386, .343, .392, .351, .365, .381, .390 and .322.

Al proved that he can still wield a willow in the last game of the World's Series. He should have been inserted sooner against the Yankees. He couldn't have looked worse than either Harry Craft or Wally Berger, who gathered a grand total of one hit between them.

Sophs Suffer Defeat

Bow to Sylvania Varsity, 27 to 20, Before 500 Fans at Stadium Field.

A LOOK of determination was written on the faces of the Mansfield high Tygers as they trooped back to the practive field today to prepare for the invasion of Akron Kenmore at Stadium field Saturday.

Kenmore treked to Mansfield last year with a one-man team—and he was the principal weapon as the Akron club upset the Tygers.

That lad, Lloyd Miller, will not be back this season, but Coach Paul Snyder's proteges are not taking any chances of the underdogs duplicating the feat.

* * *

The Tyger varsity, although not scheduled in a regular game last week, tackled the Kenyon college Freshmen in a setto at Gambier and emerged with a 6 to 0 win by virtue of Earl Garnes' 70-yard return of a pass interception in the second period.

* * *

While the varsity was victorious, Mentor Harry Mehock's sophomores didn't do so well as they dropped a 27 to 20 verdict to the Sylvania high club at Stadium field, Saturday, before approximately 500 fans.

Sylvania, paced by a 185-pound fullback, jumped into the lead in the early minutes of the first period after taking a poor Mansfield punt on the sophomores' 35. Underwood, the fullback, topped the drive by driving through center from the 12. Edinger added the point on a plunge.

Mansfield failed to overcome the visitors' advantage, but did manage to knott the score at 13-all midway in the third period. Jim Templeton heaved a short pass to Crawford who dashed over from the Sylvania 45 for the tying points.

Sylvania, however, came back in the final quarter and, with Underwood carrying the brunt of the attack punched over a pair of touchdowns to give the invaders a 27-13 lead.

Mansfield, playing its third game in four days, didn't have the drive left to do much about it. The Sophomores did add another marker when Templeton tossed a pass to Jones and he ran 40 yards for the score. Adam Brandt added the point from placement.

Sylvania secured a 13-0 in the second frame when Ott raced over left end from the five. His plunge for the point was halted.

* * *

A Templeton-to-Krupp pass shortly before the intermission enabled the Mansfield team to cut that score to a 13-7 count. The aerial traveled 45 yards. Brandt's kick for the point was blocked, but he picked the ball up and ran it over.

* * *

After the rest period, the sophomores came charging back to tie the score at 13-13. Crawford's 45-yard run after snagging a pass did the trick.

Underwood gave Sylvania its third touchdown of the day on a sprint through left tackle from the 12. He plunged over center for the point. Ott galloped two yards around left end for the final score. He converted the point on a plunge over left tackle.

Bucks' 'We-Won't-Be-Beaten' Spirit to Be Tested By Strong Cornell Eleven Saturday.

COLUMBUS—(AUP)—To state it mildly and not so originally, this football is a funny game.

Three short weeks ago the wolves were whispering slyly that this was Francis Schmidt's last season at Ohio State—unless his Buckeyes won every game, or at the worst, lost only one: Then the wolves chuckled hungrily and pointed a warning finger to the tough Ohio schedule.

You could almost name your own odds that Schmidt or any other coach would get Ohio State unscathed past even the first three games against those pre-season champions, Missouri, Northwestern and Minnesota.

* * *

Well, here it is three weeks later and the dour-faced Nebraskan has accomplished just that and the more wild-eyed Columbus fans vision a national championship at stake next Saturday when the unbeaten Buckeyes collide with unbeaten Cornell in Ohio stadium.

* * *

A deadly display of Schmidt's pet aerial maneuvers plus continued evidence of "we-won't-be-beaten" spirit earned the rembunctious Buckeyes a 23 to 20 conquest of Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday in one of the most exciting gridiron games ever played.

Three times burly Don Scott wound up and took aim far out on the field and three times he hit a receiver for three Ohio touchdowns. The Canton star added extra points after two of the scores and then Charley Maag cashed in on hours of intensive practice by booting a 20 yard field goal from a difficult angle that meant the ball game for Ohio.

It seems that the Bucks were only fooling in their futile passing against Northwestern. Against Minnesota, seven of nine heaves found the mark for a total of 168 yards to more than offset the superior Minnesota ground attack.

It was a rough game and the officiating came in for some scorching criticism after the game by both Schmidt and Coach Bernie Bierman as well as press box observers. George Franck, Gopher halfback, came up swinging after two hard tackles but no player was ejected. Penalties also spoiled several scoring opportunities for both teams including an 81-yard touchdown sprint by Jimmy Langhurst of Ohio.

* * *

The Ohio line underwent the acid test—facing a typical big, hard-charging Minnesota forward wall—and came through with colors flying. Especially brilliant were the performances of Vic Marino, veteran guard, and tackles Thornton Dixon and Jack Stephenson, two sophomores, previously classified as unproved reserves. Capt. Steve Andrako played 60 minutes of inspired football at center and Langhurst moved another big step toward all-conference honors.

* * *

Schmidt has a tremendous job this week to forestall a natural letdown in the Buckeye squad after keying them up for the bruising Minnesota game. Cornell waltzed over Penn State, 47 to 0, Saturday after previous triumphs against Syracuse and Princeton.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The Columbus Bullies resorted to wide-open football yesterday to defeat the Cincinnati Bengals, 27 to 0, and solidify their hold on first place in the American Pro league. The Bullies now lead by a wide margin with six victories and one defeat compared with two wins and one loss for Los Angeles in second place.

Columbus plays at St. Louis next Sunday. In other games yesterday Los Angeles crushed St. Louis 24 to 0, and Kenosha, Wis., nosed out Chicago, 17 to 15.

Goes to Cubs?

JOE MEDWICK

By BILL CORUNA

NEW YORK—(INS)—Joe Medwick goes to the Chicago Cubs. That's the hottest news in baseball, and it comes right off the curbstones at Grand and Olive in old St. Loo. Sad as it may be for the fervent Flatbush fans, who wanted Jersey Joey so badly for their Dodgers, it's the blinkin' truth, it is.

Only an unforseen last minute hitch will prevent consummation of the deal, and the story's so hot that Sam Breadon may break down and announce it before the week is out.

Several Chicago players will go to the Cards for one of the game's greatest hitters and National league's outstanding stars. Among these will be second baseman Billy Herman and an outfielder, probably Augie Galan. The dickey legged Dick Bartell, late of the Giants, may also figure in the transaction.

Piller's 605 High As Printers Win

Louie Piller socked the uprights for a 605 count as the Mansfield Printers outpointed the John O'Days of Cleveland, 2841 to 2572, in a special match at the Meder alleys Sunday. The Printers opened with a 1030 game.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The Columbus Bullies tightened their hold on first place in the American football league today after routing the Dayton Bombers, 33 to 6.

Supplies Trounce Lorain, Register Fifth Victory

Al Schwaner Leads Undefeated Mansfield Team To 31 To 0 Triumph At Blue Goose Field.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THERE may be better semi-pro football combines in this section of the state—but you'll have to prove it to Coach Earl McMullen and his undefeated Automotive Supplies.

Some 600 spectators converged on Blue Goose field yesterday to watch the Supplies riddle a fair Lorain Pro club, 31 to 0, and they left with one thought in mind—that the Mansfielders will have to search new territory for opponents of their own caliber.

* * *

Lorain invaded Blue Goose field sporting a two-game winning streak against rivals in its own section. When the hard charging Mansfield forward wall finished piling up the dangerous Lorain backs, the losers had marked up just five first downs —and one of them was the result of a 15-yard penalty.

* * *

Again with Al Schwaner, erstwhile Mansfield high star, leading the attack, the Supplies smashed over touchdowns in every frame in registering their fifth consecutive triumph of the year.

Mansfield displayed a powerful running attack yesterday and on each touchdown march went at least 45 yards on straight plays. The Supplies' longest drive came in the final frame when they drove 70 yards.

Mentor McMullen's aggregation opened the scoring after taking a Lorain punt on the 50. Three first downs placed the pigskin on the Pros' 10, and on the second play Al Schwaner bucked through right tackle for the score. His placement for the point was good.

Lorain staged its biggest threat shortly after the next kickoff when it marched 35 yards to the Mansfield 25. At this point a swarm of Mansfield players recovered a Lorain fumble. Again, midway in the second quarter, the visitors reached the Supplies' 37, but the alert Mansfield secondary stemmed an aerial attack. It was the last time Lorain threatened.

The Supplies piled up a 13-0 lead early in the second period. Vern Heiser climaxed a 60-yard drive by ploughing through the line from the four. Al Schwaner's kick for the point was wide.

Schwaner added his second marker of the day on a four-yard buck through center early in the third. He attempted a forward for the point, but it was incomplete.

Kenny Lockhart and Joe Miller took over the touchdown duties in the last quarter. Lockhart contributed his six points from the Lorain five, but his dropkick for the point was blocked.

* * *

Miller broke into the scoring column at the end of a 70-yard offensive. He went over from the seven on a brilliant piece of running right through the center of the line. Several Lorain players laid hands on him but he ended up 10 yards in the end zone. Schwaner's plunge for the point was stopped cold.

* * *

In tallying their one-sided win against an invading team which had only 13 players available, the Mansfielders chalked up 22 first downs. The Supplies didn't have to punt all afternoon. Four of the Lorain regulars were hurt in practice sessions last week.

Joe Costello, the Pros' 175-pound quarterback, was the only player able to penetrate the stout Mansfield defense. In the opening quarter he broke loose on a 25-yard jaunt off left tackle. The secondary brought him down from behind.

Roll Toward Title Playoff

Giants, Packers Continue Winning Ways on Grid.

CHICAGO—(AP)—New York's Giants and the Green Bay Packers are rolling along again in the direction of a title playoff in the National Pro Football league. These two powerful teams turned back major foes yesterday with versatile offensives.

A total of 81,521 fans saw the two games, in which the Giants defeated the Chicago Bears, 16 to 13, and the Packers handed the Detroit Lions their first loss of the season, 26 to 7. The total attendance at five league games was 121,166, an average of more than 24,000 per game.

* * *

The Redskins maintained their first place tie with New York in the eastern division by defeating Pittsburgh, 21 to 14.

* * *

Ralph Kercheval kicked Brooklyn to a 23 to 14 victory over Philadelphia. Parker Hall paced Cleveland to an easy 24 to 0 victory over the Chicago Cardinals, sinking the losers deeper into the western division cellar.

In the American League, the Columbus Bullies increased their leadership with a 27 to 0 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals. Second place Los Angeles, meanwhile, knocked off the St. Louis Gunners, 24 to 0. The Gunners was the only club to whip Columbus this season. Chicago nosed out Kenosha 17 to 15 in the day's other game.

RAMS RIDE TO SECOND WIN ON HALL'S ARM

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The Cleveland Rams rode to their second victory in six national football league games Sunday on an aerial attack that defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 24 to 0. Parker Hall completed three passes and put the ball on the Chicago 3 from where Johnny Drake plunged for the first touchdown. Hall pitched two more heaves in the second quarter for the second marker.

A 40-yard advance gained the third touchdown and Corby Davis added three points on a field goal.

The Cardinals gained only 69 yards by air or ground and never threatened the Cleveland goal. Hall connected with nine of his 17 aerial attempts.

Liederkranz Club Loses Three Games

The Liederkranz club dropped three close decisions to the Fremont Pennzoils in an N. C. O. Traveling league match in Fremont Sunday. The Mansfield team collected 2611 pins dropped the first game by 16 pins, the second by seven and the third by 32.

Football 'Naturals' Plentiful

Brilliant Grid Card Headed by Ohio State-Cornell This Week-End.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Football "naturals" are plentiful in the 23-game slate facing Ohio's collegiate squads next week-end.

Both the Ohio conference and state-wide standings appear ready for another jumbling like that of last week, when the three leaders, Toledo, Ohio Wesleyan and Denison were torn from the peak.

Eleven of the 23 games are with out-of-state opposition, with the intersectional struggle between two unbeaten titans, Ohio State and Cornell, headlining the program.

In 66 previous games with foreign foes, Ohio squads won, 35, lost 30 and tied one.

* * *

Back of the Cornell-Ohio State classic, the top games send Ohio Northern against Capital, Case against John Carroll, and Wooster against Muskingum—all Ohio conference scraps.

* * *

The week-end schedule:

Friday: Ohio Northern at Capital, Denison at Marietta, Bluffton at Defiance, Cincinnati at Western Reserve, and Kent State at Hobart.

Saturday: Cornell at Ohio State, Mount Union at Heidelberg, Case at John Carroll, Bowling Green at Wittenberg, Wooster at Muskingum, Otterbein at Ashland, Findlay at Assumption (Windsor, Ont.); Dayton at Oiho University, Western State Teachers (Mich.) at Toledo, Alfred Holbrook at Kenyon, Swarthmore at Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan at Miami, Hiram at Allegheny, Tennessee State at Wilberforce, Wayne at Akron, Kentucky at Xavier, Rio Grande at Transylvania.

Monday: Evansville (Ind.) at De Sales.

THEATERS

Juvenile Co-Stars.

The era of juvenile stars in motion pictures was never more apparent than right now with new youngsters being brought out with almost every picture. Although the public fondness for child stars dates back to the days of Jackie Coogan as The Kid, children didn't really come into their own in the movies until Shirley Temple's golden curls turned into a stream of box office gold. But probably the first team of juvenile stars is found in Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, who are co-starred in "Babes In Arms," the Ohio theater feature. And it's equally probable that their success may launch other juvenile teams.

* * *

Andrea Lends Romance.

Andrea Leeds, who is "booked" to marry in one of California's wealthiest and socially prominent families in the near future, will continue her screen career at least for awhile. This actress who did a great dramatic bit in "Stage Door," lends romance to "The Real Glory," which is being shown at the Madison. She is seen as the daughter of an army man, stationed in the Philippines, who falls in love with the army doctor and convinces him of her worthwhileness only after accepting drudging work as a nurse during an epidemic. Gary Cooper is the doctor.

* * *

Aquatic Star At Ritz.

Johnny Weissmuller, aquatic star whose water feats have thrilled spectators at the New York World's fair this past summer, is the star once again in a Tarzan picture. He and Maureen O'Sullivan have their original roles in "Tarzan Finds A Son," which is being shown at the Ritz. Little John Sheffield appears as the son, who is found in the jungle after an airplane crash. A baby elephant jogging at its mother's heels, is something for the youngsters to remember.

* * *

Human Interest Story.

A story of human interest is told in "King of the Turf," which the Majestic offers for three days starting tomorrow. It is the story of a colorful big-time gambler at the race tracks who goes down the social scale until he hits bottom, of his wife and a small son. Dolores Costello plays the wife in this film which stars Adolphe Menjou. The second feature is a re-issue of "Private Worlds," with Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer.

* * *

Introduced Tough Kids.

Another re-issue will be found at the Park where "Dead End" is being shown. This is the dramatic and sombre story of the tenements and the products of a bad environment which may be found in any city. It was this film, with Sylvia Sidney and Joel McCrea, which first introduced the group of "Dead End Kids," who have since been starred in their own pictures. The second flim is "Career" with Anne Shirley and Edward Ellis.

STOCK TRENDS INDEFINITE IN LOWER MARKET

Trading Forces Find Little in Foreign News to Revive Buying Urge.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market attempted a rally today but without much success.

The list churned rapidly at the opening with blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares changing hands. Trends were indefinite from the start, however, and near the second hour dealings came almost to a standstill.

Speculative forces apparently found little in the European news to revive the buying urge for shares. Bonds were irregularly higher and commodities mixed.

A prop for market sentiment was seen in the survey of the magazine "Steel," which said producers expect no letup in pressure from customers for delivery, with additional orders rapidly filling what little available capacity remains on fourth quarter schedules.

"In the Pittsburgh district alone," the review added, "five more blast furnaces are being lined or repaired. Practically all of the American fleet of Great Lakes freighters available for operation are engaged in ore movement. As of mid-October 286 vessels were attempting to build up ore stocks at blast furnaces and lower lake ports as much as possible before the end of the navigation season. Despite the recent heavy movement, stocks on hand Oct. 1, were 2,000,000 tons smaller than a year ago."

CHILDREN'S Frequent COLDS

✓ For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's spoultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

✓ For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

✓ For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

GRAMP gets grumpy when you call him an "old man." Says he doesn't feel a day over 35.

But Gramp has a cane to lean on. Not the gold-headed one his boss gave him when Gramp retired last year. The cane he leans on is life insurance. Gives him a regular monthly income as long as he lives; he is not dependent on anybody.

★ ★ ★

Did you ever wonder how much people really get out of life insurance? They were benefited, in various ways, by over two and one-half billion dollars last year. But let's look at just one special group of people:

Life Insurance in Action

To defend and protect the U.S. and all its possessions the Government paid out about one billion dollars for all branches of national defense last year.

To defend and protect American homes, the life insurance companies met one and one-third billion dollars in 1938 in death claims, annuities, endowments and disabilities . . . enough to give a million families $100 every month in the year. There was still another $1,200,000,000 in various other kinds of life insurance benefits last year.

About a million people drew monthly incomes, collected endowments or received disability income from life insurance companies last year. How much did the million get? About 475 million dollars or about 70 million dollars more than the cost of the entire U.S. Army for the year!

Through his foresight in past years, Grandpa is one of this million. He and Grandma are very good examples of life insurance in action. They had protection for the family while the children were growing up. And now they have security for their own old age. "And I didn't have to die to win," says Gramp.

There are competent and well-trained representatives in every community to explain the benefits of life insurance. Let your agent discuss your individual needs with you.

Today's Harvest from Yesterday's Foresight

Tobacco ...opens Doors to Fields where People Live, Work & Achieve

Today there are about 1,000,000 cigar stores, drug stores, country and grocery stores where you can buy cigarettes in the United States. These retailers, and the jobbers who serve them, have built up a service of courtesy and convenience unmatched by any other industry catering to the American public's pleasure.

THERE ARE ANOTHER MILLION people who are engaged directly or indirectly in the transportation of cigarettes to every town, hamlet and crossroads.

IT IS ESTIMATED that there are 1,602,000 tobacco farmers raising tobacco in 20 out of the 48 states. Good tobacco is one of the hardest crops to raise and bring to market, requiring great skill and patience from seed-bed planting to harvesting and curing. The modern tobacco farmer has done well the job of constantly improving the quality of his product.

THE AVERAGE LENGTH of service of the 13,230 people working in the Chesterfield factories, storage houses, leaf-handling and redrying plants is over 10 years. This means that every step in the making of Chesterfields, regardless of how small, is handled by people who have had 10 years of experience and ability in knowing their jobs.

TRULY TOBACCO OPENS DOORS to fields where people live, work and achieve, and Chesterfield takes pride in its ever increasing part in this great industry that is devoted entirely to the pleasure of the American public.

TO SMOKERS, Chesterfield Cigarettes have always said, and now repeat, that in no other cigarette made can you find the same degree of real mildness and good taste, or the same high quality of properly cured and aged tobaccos. Chesterfield Cigarettes are made with one purpose only . . . to give smokers everywhere the MILDER, BETTER-TASTING SMOKING PLEASURE they want. You can't buy a better cigarette.

Medicos Win In Supreme Court In Anti-Trust Case

U. S. PLEA FOR REVIEW DENIED BY TRIBUNAL

Conspiracy Action to Get New Chance for Hearing After Appellate Court Rules.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The supreme court refused today to pass on the government's suit charging the American Medical association with conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law by activities against a group health organization.

Another opportunity to review the litigation undoubtedly will be given the high tribunal after a decision is returned by the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia.

The government had appealed directly to the supreme court from an adverse decision by the federal district court for the District of Columbia. The Medical association did not oppose this procedure.

The district court ruled that the anti-trust law did not apply to physicians because they are engaged in a profession and not a trade. The law prohibits activities in restraint of trade in interstate commerce.

The justice department said a decision by the high tribunal would "affect the conditions of medical practice throughout the United States."

Among other actions today the court:

Declined to review a decision temporarily enjoining two publishing companies from selling Adolf Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," the American copyright of which is claimed by another company.

Denied a request by the Milk Wagon Drivers union of Chicago for a review of a decision enjoining picketing of retail stores selling the product of a dairy alleged to have engaged in unfair labor practices.

Agreed to review a ruling which dismissed a government suit seeking to obtain possession of $1,080,399 which the government contended had been assigned the United States by the Soviet government in 1933 in connection with recognition of that country.

PEDESTRIAN, 71, KILLED BY AUTO

Resident of Near Crestline Fatally Hurt as He Walks Along Highway.

Rev. Carl Grimm, pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed church, officiating. Burial will be in the Biddle cemetery west of Shelby.

Only other person hurt in county traffic was Floyd Carpenter, 27, of Garden Acres, who was struck by a car driven by A. C. Reed, Garden Acres, about 8:45 p. m. Saturday near the reformatory entrance on the Olivesburg road.

Carpenter was treated at General hospital for abrasions of his right side and hip. His injury was slight, hospital attaches said.

At Loudonville, George R. Holland, 40, of near Loudonville was fined $100 and costs on a charge of driving while intoxicated after his car collided with two others on route 39 near Loudonville shortly after midnight Saturday, slightly injuring Mrs. Clayton Mann of Perrysville.

Holland was fined by Mayor E. L. Smith of Loudonville. He agreed to pay for damages to the two cars, amounting to $298. The cars were driven by Harold Johnson, 23, of Lakeville, and Clayton Mann, 29, Perrysville.

Three persons were injured, none seriously, in three accidents Sunday near Bucyrus. Mrs. John Fick and two of her children, Miss Beatrice Fick, 18, and Robert, 12, of Bucyrus received cuts and bruises when the car in which they were riding was crowded off the road and went down an embankment along route 4 six miles north of Bucyrus. Fick was driving.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fritz, of Lemert, were treated for cuts and bruises by a Bucyrus physician after the car in which they were riding to church was struck by Kenneth Stover, a divinity student with a parish in the northern part of the county. Sheriff Albert French said that Stover had failed to stop when coming out of a cross road.

Victims of traffic crashes in other sections of the state included William E. Shoults, 25, killed in a "junkyard derby" accident at Mt. Vernon; Carroll Sponsler, 22, Delaware county, and Robert Ewing, 22, of Kenton, killed in a motorcycle-auto collision in Logan county; Fremont F. Tucker, 28, of ski, 32, Lorain, and Frank Kruckyski, 32, Lorain, and Frank Krucyinski, Elyria, who died after he was struck by an automobile.

James Roosevelt Silent On Rumors Of Marital Split

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—(NS)—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president, today refused to either confirm or deny reports that he and his wife, the former Betsy Cushing, plan a divorce.

Roosevelt, who holds an important executive position in a Hollywood movie studio, said:

"People have been trying to make my separation from Betsy look important. Well, you know how rumors are. That is all I can say."

When similar rumors were heard seven months ago, Roosevelt declared they were "silly," and that he would prepare a home in Hollywood for his wife and family. But Mrs. Roosevelt's stay on the coast lasted about two weeks and then she returned east to live with her parents.

The Roosevelts have two daughters. They were married June 4, 1930.

PAY HIKES DUE TOMORROW FOR 650,000 IN U. S.

New Provisions of Wage-Hour Law to Have Indirect Effect on Mansfield.

The second phase of the wage-hour law which increases the minimum wage and shortens the maximum work week for workers in interstate industries becomes effective throughout the nation tomorrow.

The new provisions of the act will have only an indirect effect on Mansfield industry.

Administration officials estimated 650,000 American workers will receive pay increases and an additional 1,100,000 would get shorter hours or overtime pay when the automatic changes take place in the wage hour law.

The law says 30 cents an hour shall be the minimum wage and 42 hours the maximum work week for employes whose products move in interstate commerce. The standards will replace the 25-cent hourly minimum and 44-hour maximum week in effect for the first year of the act's operation.

The effect of the act will be indirect as far as Mansfield is concerned, in that it affects industries with low pay schedules that might compete with Mansfield," John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce explained.

Pressure Relieved.

It will relieve pressure against higher wage areas. Of course, the national law does effect regions where sweat shop conditions prevail."

Pay Here Above Minimum.

It was pointed out that Mansfield industries in general were providing greater pay and shorter hours than the minimums set by the act, although there were a few instances where workers will be affected by the wage-hour provisions. And in the shops where the hours are over the minimum provided it will mean overtime pay.

Preliminary figures place the total wage increase expected from the higher standards for all industries in the nation at $100,000,000 for the year beginning Oct. 24.

Wage-hour officials estimate that 450,000 employers in the country employing 12,000,000 persons are covered by the act.

The wage increase and hours reduction becoming effective tomorrow represents the second stage of the 40 cents per hour minimum and 40-hour week goal.

The regular work week limitation will decreease to 40 hours on Oct. 24, 1940, but the national 40-cent hourly wage minimum does not become effective universally until Oct. 24, 1945, although special industry committees appointed by the administrator may recommend that goal sooner, it was reported.

Meanwhile Lt. Col. Philip Fleming, a trusted New Deal "trouble shooter" arrived in Washington today to take personal command of a revamped wage-hour administration on the eve of the law's first anniversary, United Press dispatches said.

Fleming, 52-year-old army engineer, steps into one of the administration's toughest jobs after a major personnel shake-up in which Administrator Elmer F. Andrews was shifted to another federal post. He has been on army duty at St. Paul, Minn.

FUGITIVE BACK

One of 4 Who Escaped O. S. R. Picked Up in Kentucky.

The third member of a band of four trusties who escaped from the Ohio State reformatory five weeks ago was back in the institution today.

He is Jack Turner, 21-year-old Cleveland automobile thief who was returned by reformatory guards from Paintsville, Ky., where he had been taken into custody for carrying concealed weapons, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said.

Turner escaped from the reformatory with three other inmates while doing repair work on the administration building outside the walls.

Clark Icenhauer of Akron, and Harley Keller, Dayton, both serving robbery terms gave themselves up to authorities. John Faught, Columbus, serving a term for automobile theft is the only member of the quartet still at large.

Democratic party promised there would be "efficiency, economy, progress and cooperation in the management of city affairs."

"Have they fulfilled those promises?" he asked

"They have. They have kept faith with the people of Mansfield. They can give a good account of themselves." He then outlined what he termed was a "record never before equalled in the history of Mansfield."

This he asserted was a reduction in delinquent water bills of more than $13,000 which had been "inherited" from the former Republican administration.

He added that five miles of new water mains have been laid in the city during the past 21 months; three and one-half miles of new sewers were put down, several miles of new sidewalks and more than $50,000 in new streets.

At the election of officers of the Young Democratic club Saturday night, Atty. Marshall Moore was named to succeed John Correll as president of the organization. Correll has held the position for the past three years.

Atty. Charles Freehafer was elected vice president, James Brerces, secretary, and Ruth Durig, treasurer.

Headed by Mayor Hunter, the party's entire ticket of 13 candidates attended the meeting and was introduced by Correll.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Crispus Attucks club, colored Democratic organization, yesterday, Mayor Hunter was endorsed for a second term, the committee pledged its support to the entire Democratic ticket. They also endorsed George H. Blecker, candidate for municipal judge on the non-partisan ballot.

GET 'HEART, SOUL' OF NEWS IN STORIES, WOMEN WRITERS TOLD

American newspapers are too much concerned with the mechanics of news and too little with its heart and soul, Robert Segal, editorial director of the Scioto Gazette and News Advertiser of Chillicothe, told Ohio newspaper women at the final session of their annual convention in Dayton yesterday.

Segal, who has come up through all of the departments of news gathering and writing, said editors are "too preoccupied with the mold and too little concerned about what goes into it." He compared the present and old schools of news gathering and editing with the modern tractor era on the farm which has replaced the horse and plow and the farmer who loved and understood the earth.

"Just as the land is made up of something more than chemicals, so news is something more than mechanics," he said. "Wirephoto, facsimile and television are important mechanical developments in the transmission of news—but they are no more important than the reporter who knows and can write the details of his town.

Segal gave ten reasons why a newspaper job is one of the "best jobs in the world." They were: 1—It's good, clean fun. 2—There is still adventure left in it. 3—It is not dull unless the worker is dull. 4—The reporter is the official biographer of his town. 5—You need no capital to go into it. 6—You have a chance to grow. 7—You learn to express yourself. 8—The contacts are stimulating. 9—You learn to "spot the phoney at 50 yards." 10—Newspaper work is a basic freedom in these days when the American way of life is being assailed.

Segal addressed the convention at the Sunday morning breakfast. Helen Allyn of Cleveland, was elected president of the Ohio Newspaper Women's Association in the bi-annual election of officers, succeeding Dorothy Todd Foster of Columbus.

Other officers were Norine Freeman, Cincinnati, vice president; Amelia Hydell, Chillicothe, treasurer; Marion Bush Reeder, Athens, recording secretary; Mary Jose, Columbus, membership chairman. Dorothy Harmon, Cleveland, and Ruth Fuller, Lancaster, were appointed to chairmanships.

All women members of The News-Journal's editorial staff received recognition in the annual contests. Jane Williams, who received three cash awards and five honorable mentions in eight classifications, took the second highest number of awards, running second to Helen Waterhouse of the Akron Beacon Journal, who took six cash awards.

Mrs. Williams' cash awards were for news-features, features and interviews. She was interviewed by Peter Grant, WLW news commentator on a national hook-up Saturday.

Frances Gensley, society editor of The News-Journal, won the award for the best single wedding story, while Marianne Springer, society page columnist, won an honorable mention for The News-Journal's society page, which she handled during Miss Gensley's vacation this summer. This was only the second year in the contests for Miss Gensley and the first for Miss Springer.

3 FEARED DEAD IN LAKE STORM

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Coast guardsmen feared today three Cleveland fishermen were drowned in a 40-mile gale which swept Lake Erie yesterday.

The missing:

William E. Crapo, chief boatswain in command of the coast guard station, said the flat-bottom boat in which Marshall and Jaworski were believed to have gone to their death was found, smashed, on the rocks of the government breakwall near the foot of East Ninth street.

SOVIET DESIGNS ON INDIA NEW BRITISH WORRY

Moscow Reports Indicate Reds Planning Campaign to Make Dream a Reality.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer.)

Diplomatic quarters in Moscow express the belief that the Soviet may take advantage of England's preoccupation with the war and try to extend Russian influence into India through the buffer state of Afghanistan.

Probably coincidently, but none the less embarrassing to Britain, is the sensational political action taken by the powerful India congress to force England to pledge herself to Indian independence after the war.

The congress, or nationalist party, under the leadership of Mohandas Ghandi, has adopted the extreme measure of calling on the eight provincial governments which it controls to resign. Since the congress dominates all but three of the governments of British India, resignations of eight would make pretty well a clean sweep

This political upheaval, coupled with the possibility of a further Soviet effort to make India communistic, presents a real problem to the mother country, which already has its hands full in the war with Herr Hitler.

Ever since Communism established itself in Russia it has done its upmost to grow the "ism" in this nationalist soil with some success, though not widespread, owing to the vigorous counter-measures of the British government.

Forms Gateway.

Actually the Russion ambition to dominate India isn't original with Communism, since it long was a Czarist dream. And Afghanistan always was regarded as the gateway to this mysterious land where the princes are so rich that money and jewelry cease to have a meaning.

For close to a century the British attitude toward the primitive county to a possible invasion of India by Russia. In order to prevent Afghanistan from falling under Czarist influence the Afghan wars of 1838 and 1878 were waged.

Anglo-Afghan relations now are cordial and Afghanistan is generally regarded as lying within the British sphere of influence.

Some 15 years ago the Bolshevists did undertake penetration of Afghanistan. The British charge that the purpose of this was to make it possible for Russia to attack India.

The Bolshevists gave large subsidies to Afghanistan. Telegraph lines were erected, highways were built and an airforce was developed. This success was interrupted, however, at the end of 1925 when the Bolshevists captured an Afghan post. The trouble ended in a treaty of friendship, but the extensive red penetration was stopped. Now it may begin again.

The danger of any armed invasion of India through Afghanistan is probably slight these days. There are only two gates into the empire through that mountainous region and they are powerfully guarded.

So the chief danger from the British viewpoint would lie in the possible spread of Communism at a moment when there is strong agitation for self-government in British India, which is the portion distinct from that governed by the native princes.

At the Mansfield Transfer and Storage company filling station, 171 North Franklin avenue, Clifton First, the attendant reported that $138 was taken from a compartment of a safe on which a door had been forced open.

I. S. Newcomer, 512 Bowman street, told police that his garage had been broken into and lumber and angle iron valued at $75 taken.

H. E. Riddlebaugh, 327 Bowman street, told police that he returned home yesterday and found that his home had been ransacked and a small radio and set of silverware valued at $44 missing.

a convoy in the North sea.)

Rumors from Moscow to the effect that Joseph Stalin had declined to give further military aid to Germany were put off with the laconoc statement: "That is another trial balloon to see what kind of a rise can be got out of us."

Meanwhile, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, in a radio address broadcast in many languages, appealed for sympathy abroad by accusing Britain of sinking the British liner Athenia to enlist America on her side.

Call Pact With Turks No. 1 Achievement.

LONDON—(AP)—Great Britain today counted the first 50 days of war as well spent although there still was little to answer the question "what kind of a war is this?"

As the war entered its eighth week, commentators rated the British-French-Turkish mutual assistance pact as the number one achievement so far but there also was much pointing with pride to the way British warplanes had beaten off the first air attack on a naval convoy in the North Sea.

The home front, however, appeared satisfied to hammer away on preparedness and let the "real war" come when it will. Starting tomorrow, the House of Commons will face three busy days over such questions as the blackout, government control of trade, transportation difficulties and the problem of removing civilians from danger areas. Prime Minister Chamberlain will give his weekly war review Thursday.

Counting four German planes shot down in the convoy raid Saturday and another off the east coast yesterday, the air ministry figured at least 13 enemy aircraft were lost in a week that brought air raid warnings somewhere every day.

The assertion yesterday of U. S. Senator William E. Borah that "powerful British interests" were trying to draw the United States into the war was given little space on the news pages and there was no editorial comment.

DIAMONDS SOAR

Follow Commodities in Price Increase Due to War.

Sugar and beans were not the only commodities to shoot skyward with the outbreak of war in Europe. Mansfield jewelers have announced that the price of diamonds has increased as much as 35 per cent.

They point out that there are several reasons for this. While the United States is the largest buyer of diamonds in the world, Great Britain controls the world's biggest supply and Holland and Belgium do most of the cutting.

Diamonds may be used in making war machinery and as a result Great Britain has placed an embargo on them. In Holland and Belgium the 40 per cent of the diamond cutters have been mobilized for military duty while in the United States speculators and investors are buying them up, jewelers said.

Prices have increased as high as 35 per cent on smaller stones, up to a quarter of a carat, and 20 per cent on larger stones.

"Have you ever noticed that Camels burn longer and give you more smoking?"
ASKS VAN CAMPEN HEILNER
FAMOUS GAME AND FISHING AUTHORITY

Above, "VAN" waiting in the duck blinds for the "zero hour." Explorer, sportsman, scientist, conservationist, author of the authoritative, new "A Book on Duck Shooting," Heilner knows the waterfowl flyways from California to Maine, Alaska to Mexico, and those of Europe too. "VAN" has been a Camel smoker for 15 years.

SMOKERS:
SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

You can tell a lot about a cigarette by whether it burns fast or slowly. Camel cigarettes are noted for their long burning. In fact, they burned longer, slower than any other brand tested, in recent scientific studies. Van Campen Heilner, the famous American authority on wild game, points out an interesting angle to this. "Camels give more smoking because those choice tobaccos burn so slowly," he says. "And I think the way they burn is a very good way to judge the quality of cigarettes too. I notice this about Camels—I can smoke them steadily and they still taste smooth and cool, and my mouth feels fresh—and there's no throat irritation. Camels are mild, flavory. They give more pleasure per puff—and more puffs per pack." Turn to Camels. Get extra smoking per pack—topped off with the delicate taste of choice quality tobaccos. For contentment—smoke Camels!

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF . . . MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

Whatever price you pay per pack, it's important to remember this fact: By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Cigarettes were compared recently... sixteen of the largest-selling brands ...under the searching tests of impartial laboratory scientists. Findings were announced as follows:

1 CAMELS were found to contain more tobacco by weight than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 Camels burned slower than any other brand tested—25% slower than the average time of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

3 In the same tests, Camels held their ash far longer than the average time for all the other brands.

Don't deny yourself the pleasure of smoking Camels, the quality cigarette every smoker can afford.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1939.

Promise something for nothing and you'll soon have a following.

Word comes that the German people have given Hitler so much rope that they are now getting it back in their cigars.

The humanitarian movement has reached a point of recognizing the cruelty of using mules in war—and may eventually advance to realization that the lives of young men are also worth saving.

Set Aside Time To Vote

WITH election day coming along two weeks from tomorrow, it appears that main emphasis from now on may well be given to impressing all voters with the importance of taking time to go to the polls and mark the several ballots which each Mansfield voter will receive.

City and township officials are to be elected, renewal of the 3-mill tax levy for support of schools is to be decided, and three proposed amendments to the state constitution are to be voted on.

In a city and township election it is possible for all voters to see and hear the candidates for each of the offices to be filled, and to form an opinion as to which seems better qualified to perform the duties of the position to which he aspires.

A little study of local and state issues being presented also makes it possible to vote intelligently on these questions.

One of the most serious menaces to representative government results from failure of any considerable percentage of qualified voters to participate in elections, thus permitting an aggressive minority to sometimes attain a voting majority.

Avoid Premature Halloweening

ENTERING the week customarily given to pre-Halloween activities, it may be hoped that the progress in good behavior during this period, which has been noted in Mansfield for the past several years, will continue and that more children will get the idea that they can have fun without destroying property or making themselves nuisances in their neighborhood.

No one except a confirmed grouch objects to harmless Halloween pranks by young children, but there is natural resentment over damage to property, or the petty thievery sometimes indulged in by older groups which display an element of hooliganism in their depredations.

Window soaping, and smearing the glass of automobiles or marking the body finish of cars, is of at least questionable propriety, as this causes inconvenience and sometimes permanent damage.

Real education leads naturally to a desire to do something helpful to other people, rather than to annoy or inconvenience them, and the Halloween practice developed in some cities, in which young people take baskets of food to needy families, is one of the finest examples of thoughtful Halloweening that has been observed.

The spread of Halloween pranks to several days, or even a couple of weeks in advance of the actual date—October 31—is an inexcusable infringement on the rights of others, and should not be permitted by parents or tolerated by citizens of a community. Such conduct is a relic of village buffoonery which is entirely out of place in a city of this size.

Three Hundred Years of Printing

HAVE you seen one of those newly-issued 3-cent postage stamps commemorating the 300th anniversary of the introduction of the printing press into the American colonies?

Pictured on the stamp is the crude Stephen Daye hand press of 1639, on which was printed the "freeman's oath," and which paved the way for the freedom of the press, freedom of speech, and other individual liberties which this new land vouchsafed those who fled from the tyrannies and oppressions of their native countries.

Many difficulties were encountered by those venturesome men who introduced printing into the American colonies, for early governors were opposed to free schools or to distribution of information to "the masses."

Freedom of the press and efforts toward universal education have played important parts in the at least partial success that has thus far been made of the experiment in democracy in which the people of the United States are engaged.

One of the first requirements of a dictatorship is to suppress any expressions of opposition and to keep the people in ignorance of what is being done by government.

A free press, and continued advancement in public education are important factors in making theoretical democracy a reality.

Progress in Television

THE WONDERS of television became more practical as a result of a recent remarkable experiment in New York and Washington. The main difficulty in development of this art has been the short transmission distance. Television waves, though powerful, did not seem to carry more than fifty miles. But that, the scientists suspected, was merely because the rays, unlike ordinary radio waves, traveled in straight lines and, due to the curvature of the earth, vanished into the air about 50 miles from the sending tower.

At a height of four miles above Washington this theory was brilliantly proved. The combination picture-voice transmission for the intervening 200 miles was successful. It is suggested now that television may be extended for almost any distance desired, by installing relay stations about 300 miles apart, held aloft by balloons four or five miles high.

The Athletic Finns

THE PEOPLE of Finland are said to fear the possible loss of their Olympic games next year as much as they fear the million Russian soldiers on their border.

That great tournament of world athletics was given up by Japan, when it became so deeply involved in its Chinese war, and was eagerly claimed by Finland. This little nation has never been deterred from outdoor sports by its boreal climate, and is possibly the most vigorous of all the races competing for world honors. It has made great preparations for the games, erecting many fine buildings and providing for competitors and guests facilities that would ordinarily be expected only in a land of large population and wealth.

The free world hopes the fine little democracy will be allowed to realize its hopes, as host and as a worthy candidate for further athletic honors.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Let us consider the fisherman. The abuses heaped upon him by the ignorant and the profane are common knowledge. He can't open his mouth without being accused of pervaricating. When a man tells me he went fishing and that the bass were so predatory they smashed his tackle, stove in his boat, and permitted him to escape by the skin of his teeth, I believe him. Who am I to question the veracity of people I don't know. I wasn't there.

There are times when mentioning my own experiences that people break in with rude and crude interruptions. Just the other day our drama critic, Mark Barron, who is at heart a professional doubter, broke in with the low insinuation that every time I tell of an escape it seems to have a different ending. It probably hasn't occurred to him that I have made any number of escapes.

* * *

NOT long ago a man in Fort Worth sent me a nice little scroll, a "Liar's License for Fishermen," because, quote, "by long practice and coupled with a vivid imagination, you have exhibited all the proper qualifications." Therefore I am entitled to lie any time and anywhere except in the presence of game wardens. It also provides for the use of doctored scales and elastic rulers. Guides may be bribed. The lone restriction is that no lie, once told, may be retracted.

I leave Friday to test this talisman. Once again I join Mel Graff in the environs of Northville, New York, more than 200 miles north, this time after walleye. Getting ready has been a lot of good clean fun.

After fiddling away two hours in a tackle establishment this evening, laying by a supply of new 12-lb. test line, some spinners, and other accessories, I passed out into the street again and came upon a party of friends en route to a supper dance at one of the hotels. They were very happy. They thought they were enjoying life. Of course I felicitated them on their imagination—supper dances are so original—and in any case I did not want to throw gloom on an evening that for them promised such pleasure.

* * *

BUT as they piled into their cab and went noisily away, I pitied them. They were going to a supper dance. They were having a high old time. . . . How little it takes to satisfy some folk, I mused, patting my pockets to see that my tackle was still there.

And how suddenly envious they would be if they could but know that, come Friday, I'll be on the handsome road, renewing my faith in nature, with the city far behind, with whiffs of smoke drifting lazily up from my pipe, my liar's license snugly next to my fishing license in an inside pocket.

That was smug of me, really. I was standing on a street corner in Manhattan, being smug. Probably I shall be punished for this. I'll break a leg, or much worse, the fish won't bite. But then, what can you expect when half your friends don't even speak your language.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It will probably be denied, but within a few days after the arms embargo is lifted there will begin a series of the greatest mass transoceanic flights in aviation history.

Each flight will consist of new, twin-engined bombing and patrol planes, made in the United States and destined for England and France.

Over $100,000,000 worth of planes are awaiting export to Europe. Stymied in delivery by the embargo, they have been jamming storage facilities on the Pacific coast and near Baltimore. Confident that congress is set to repeal the embargo, British and French authorities have been rushing arrangements for getting the planes overseas.

Taking them over "on the wing" was decided on as the safest way to avoid heavy losses. A torpedoed ship would mean the loss of 20 or 30 planes at one time, while the danger of loss during flight from Newfoundland—1,900 miles across the Atlantic—is estimated at much less—perhaps a ratio of 1 in 20.

Moreover, the British have a powerful radio guide at Botwood, Newfoundland. With its help and the great speed of the ships, their passage across the Atlantic will not be such a hazardous venture.

How many British and French pilots and crews have been assembled at Botwood is not known, but confidential reports indicate that already there are several hundred. Botwood is one of the greatest land and seaplane bases in this hemisphere and probably was constructed by Britain with this very purpose in mind.

Five of the largest plane manufacturers are making ships for the allies—Lockheed, Douglas, Martin, Curtiss and North American. The first three have big contracts for twin-motored bombers, the other two for pursuit and attack planes. The latter could not be flown to Europe, as their sustained flight range is only a few hours.

Note—Mayor Ellenstein of Newark, N. J., recently refused permission to store 60 Lockheed bombers at the giant Newark airport. Ellenstein claimed there was "no more room," but insiders say he feared sabotage attempts and didn't want to take the responsibility for guarding the ships.

Who's Andrews?

EX-WAGE-HOUR Administrator Elmer Andrews' interview with Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones, when he went to see him about getting an RFC job, was a shock to both of them.

When the White House notified Andrews he was being replaced as wage-hour boss, he was also offered the choice of several other jobs, one of them with the RFC. Andrews finally decided to look the RFC over and asked for an appointment with Jones. Jones receiving him cordially, but seemed mystified.

"Where have you worked, Mr. Andrews?" he asked.

"I am with the wage-hour administration."

"Oh, yes," said Jesse, "and just what do you do there?"

With not uncommon inefficiency, the White House staff had forgotten to inform Jones about the offer of an RFC job to Andrews.

AFL Boat-Rocking.

THE secret plans of AFL moguls to retire Secretary-Treasurer Frank Morrison at the recent convention were very nearly upset by the white-thatched veteran himself. The attendant rumpus also gave Harry Bates, jut-jawed boss of the bricklayers, a chance to scuttle a scheme to elect Dick Ornburn, chief of the union label trades department, as Morrison's successor.

Last summer the inner clique decided among themselves to shelve the 80-year-old Morrison, but when The Washington Merry-Go-Round revealed the plan it was hotly denied by the AFL publicity agent on orders from above. This official refutation, plus Morrison's 40 years of service in the AFL, convinced him he need not worry.

But at the convention he soon learned better. He was told he would be retired, but with his full pay of $10,000 a year. This tempting concession, however, did not appease Morrison.

"Nothing doing," he rasped at John Coefield, plumbers' president, and Herbert Rivers, secretary of the building trades department, who pleaded with him. "If you fellows think you can shelve me like that, you're badly mistaken. I'm sticking and the convention will re-elect me over your opposition."

But Morrison quickly discovered that the personal popularity he was counting on to save him wasn't enough. Faced with the certainty of being retired, he then rushed to accept the Coefield-Rivers offer. But it was too late. Coefield curtly informed him that the convention bosses had decided to give him a pension of only $6,000 a year.

Morrison's obduracy cost him $4,000 per annum.

Merry-Go-Round.

IT'S just one battle after another inside the National Labor Relations board. Latest is the attempt of recently appointed Commissioner William Leiserson to oust Nat Witt, able secretary of the board. Chairman J. W. Madden and Commissioner Ed Smith blocked Leiserson and they have been having a merry row among themselves. . . . A number of administrationites are up in arms over statements made about them in "The Pressure Boys," lobby expose written by Kenneth Crawford, correspondent of the New York Post. Two most indignant are former Attorney General Cummings and ex-NRA Administrator Don Richberg. . . . The three-hour pro-embargo speech made by Bob LaFollette in the senate was largely written by a Washington newsman, author of several books on international affairs. . . . Utopian notice sent out by the Melrose, Minn., rural electrification co-operative to its members: "It would convenience us greatly if bills were not paid until statements are received."

Service Camps for Young Women?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A COMPULSORY post-graduation summer course in Domestic Science, First Aid, Child Care, Gardening, Elementary Mechanics with plenty of socializing fun and team work on the side . . . what do YOU think of it?

They're doing it in Europe—and turning out gorgeous crops of buxom, beaming, friendly, efficient youngsters. They did it in America, once—when Sis served time in Mother's kitchen until she had her own. And certainly hung up a splendid record.

But would it work on modern Miss America? Would it be better for her—and no end easier on the family nerves and pocketbook—than her present carefree summer life?

We tossed the question . . . and were there fireworks!

Ann Balduccio, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is all for 'em. Says Ann—

"Needed? I'll say they are! I'm as proud of my sex as any girl, but I still believe we have a lot to learn about teamwork and fair play, not only between ourselves but with men, in the office and the home. Such summer courses would promote that better understanding, give young women a broader view of life in general and a deeper appreciation of the struggles the average American man makes for his home and family.

Such camp life would be particularly helpful in enlarging domestic interests and activities. I have never subscribed to the old adage, 'A woman's place is in the home.' And the men who quote most are least likely to appreciate it. If the home is woman's only interest, she is soon left in lonely possession of it. The modern Mrs. faces fierce competition with the 'office wife.' No real man enjoys a household drudge as a companian. Miss America needs all the help she can get toward making the home as attractive as the office. Bring on your camps, say I!"

Ann Balduccio—age 26.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

But Jane Broudy, of Chicago, Ill., is ag'in the notion 100 per cent.

"NO!" says Jane. "Haven't the overburdened taxpayers enough of a burden already without loading the further education of such young women upon them? It's the duty of the home to train its daughters for better wifehood and motherhood, not of the government. And it's primarily the girl's own duty to get out and hustle for herself without "going to classes" until she's middle aged!

"My main objection to such camps is that they'd 'regiment' the girls, force them to take training whether they are fit for it or not, and waste the time of those who should be busy repaying their families for the expenses incurred during High School days.

"By the time a girl has graduated from high school she should know exactly how she stands as to capabilities and desires. Government interference would take the initiative away from her by supplying her with a form of dole. It would be a nice lark while it lasted, Elsie; the gadder, the butterfly, the footloose would like it. It would make them more dissatisfied than ever with earning their own living.

"ISN'T THERE A LIMIT, SOMEWHERE, TO ALL THIS CODDLING OF HUSKY CITIZENS WHO SHOULD BE CARING FOR THEMSELVES?"

Jane Broudy—Age 23,
Chicago, Ill.

That's telling them! And now suppose you say YOUR piece—?

More Cultural Olympics.

The Cultural Olympics will be on again this year sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania. This is the fourth year this series of cultural competitions has been held over an eight-month period for both youngsters and adults. Many sorts of popular rivalries for developing talent are encouraged. Among these are music, dances, plastic arts, photography, literary and speech events.

Scope of the Cultural Olympics has widened each year so that now residents of Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware appreciate the stimulation of these wholesome competitions. This year the idea is being tried out by the University of Texas. It proves that athletics is not the only type of contest that will capture the attention of the people—Toledo Blade.

Health And Diet

Talent Can Be Inherited.

—By DR. CLENDENING

DISCUSSING further the book called You and Heredity, by Amram Scheinfeld and Dr. Morton D. Schweitzer (Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York), there is a special element called the X chromosome, which enters into the development of any animal, including the human animal. The female adds two of these X chromosomes, the male only one.

There is another peculiar chromosome called the Y, which is present only in the male element. The Y is much smaller than the X, and in some diseases the male X chromosome carries diseases which are called, for this reason, sex-linked. These diseases occur almost exclusively in men because in women the extra X chromosome blocks the other one. The Y chromosome is much shorter and does not block the X chromosome which carries the disease.

One of these diseases is color blindness; another is the bleeding sickness which carried off the young czar, prince of Russia, and the son of the king of Spain.

Baldness is a sex-linked, inherited characteristic, occurring exclusively in men. Complete baldness in women is almost never seen.

There are three special forms of inherited baldness patterns: (1) The kind which is over the whole top of the head; if a man of this kind happens to inherit it from both sides of the family, all of his sons will be bald. (2) The baldness starting at the temples and moving backwards in two bays over the ears; it is less likely to be hereditary. (3) The baldness starting at the center of the crown; this is an inherited baldness pattern, but it may not be so likely to produce baldness in the children.

Musical talent is particularly likely to be inherited.

Among 36 outstanding instrumental musicians of the world, the average age at which talent was expressed was under five. Their professional debuts were made at the average age of 13. Among their families, half the mothers were reported as having unusual musical talent, and three-quarters of the fathers were musical or professional musicians; several, such as the father of Damrosch, were of outstanding musical talent. Half the brothers and sisters had musical talent and were concert artists of note.

Of 36 Metropolitan Opera singers, the average age at which training was begun was eight. The age of the professional debut is somewhat later in these than in the instrumentalists on account of the vocal changes that occur at puberty; it was 15½ for the women and 17½ for the men.

As in the case of the instrumentalists, a large number of mothers and fathers of the opera singers were decidedly talented in music, many of them professionally.

Ohio Anecdotes

Border Ruffians.

JOHN SHERMAN of Richland county, who held a United States senatorship from Ohio for 26 years during a 36-year period beginning in 1861, became a nationally known political figure when but a young man.

Admitted to the bar in 1848, he shortly afterwards was elected a Whig delegate to the Philadelphia convention, where he was made convention secretary. Sherman stumped Ohio for Zachary Taylor, the presidential candidate elected.

At the next congressional session, Sherman was named to a committee to investigate border troubles in Kansas, a national "hot-spot" of that day.

So bold were ruffians that only the presence of United States troops from Fort Leavenworth prevented the committee members from being man-handled. On one occasion testimony proceedings were delayed by 60 men armed with bowie knives and pistols.

A Farmer's Diary

Birds Nests and Cannons

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ON A calendar in a friend's dining room, is a picture of a robin that built its nest in the mouth of a cannon, mounted upon a wooden carriage. The morning sun shines on the portion of cannon where the bird is perched, on the bloom of an obscuring wild crabapple tree, and on the faces of a group of children who have stopped to watch the robin feed her four hungry fledglings. It is only an artist's idealistic dream, that picture, but I have often been glad to look at it, and glad that it hung where my friend's children could see it, morning, noon, and night.

* * *

JUST yesterday I walked in a city park where a more modern gun was standing. The large, steep aproned shelter had numerous slots where enemy bullets had made clean cuts through the heavy metal. It had stood there for some time, for two maple saplings grew along each side, and camouflaged the war-like spectacle. Heavy tufts of bluegrass half buried the parts that lay upon the ground.

An old man, with cane in hand, and a faltering, uncertain step came by. He stopped and looked at the monster.

"It makes me tremble to look at that," he said to me. "I was in the fight at Gettysburg, but us boys in blue and them in gray never used such hellish things. That's been here eighteen years now, but to my way of thinkin' it don't make our park no more interestin' nor beautiful. A bluebird built a nest on the ledge of it last summer. See — here." He pointed with his cane, and I saw within a protected place, the remnant of a nest. "I never saw no glory in battlefields where men as good or better'n me lay dead or dyin'. That little bluebird gives a better answer to my feelings than all the talk and all the flag wavin'."

* * *

I BOUGHT an evening paper from a newsboy who came by. The front page bore a picture of Americans brought home from war-torn Europe under convoy, and the heading, "It's home again, and home again, America for me." My mind went on to the finish of the stanza, "To the blessed land of room enough, beyond the ocean bars, where the air is full of sunshine, and the flag is full of stars."

Try These Different Meats

By RUTH CHAMBERS

We are becoming more and more health-conscious, it seems, and that is a very good thing. With our new interest in the subject and the many recent discoveries in the field of nutrition, we are being taught more every day about the close relationship which exists between the food we eat and the way we feel and look.

Homemakers were educated long ago to the importance of the right food for children. Then women learned more about the science of eating when they began experiments with diets in their efforts to acquire or retain a slender figure. Sometimes these experiments proved harmful to their health. As a result of the lesson they learned, the emphasis today is upon sane diets. Food fads have gone out of style. We know now that a varied and well balanced diet for all members of the family is their best protection against many physical ills and that health is to be won and kept by following common sense rules, based on scientific principles.

Dinner Menu.

Tomato Juice
Beef Heart, Brown Gravy
Steamed Rice Buttered Peas
Combination Vegetable Salad
Baking Powder Biscuits
Marmalade
Prune Whip
Coffee Milk

We've come a long way in the understanding of food values since the time when we "counted calories," and paid little heed to such food essentials as minerals, vitamins and the right proportion of building and energy foods.

Eat Heart for Iron.

One of the important medical discoveries has been the value of liver, with its high iron content, in the prevention and treatment of nutritional anemia. This discovery drew attention to the food value of other meat sundries, such as the heart, kidneys and sweetbreads.

Heart ranks next to liver as a rich source of iron in the diet and should therefore be served frequently.

The much discussed vitamins come into the picture, too, and heart, liver and kidneys are among the good sources of the important vitamin B in its various complexities.

Liver is a source of vitamin A. Recent experiments indicate that the fat of meat is important as a carrier of important vitamins, in addition to its value in providing heat and energy.

Have Diversified Menu.

For the sake of your family's health, let your menus be as diversified and well balanced as you can make them, with a good supply of meat, cereals, fresh and cooked vegetables and fruits and dairy supplies. And extend your cooking repertory to include those parts of the meat animals which are so rich in food essentials.

Beef Heart.

Heart may be cooked in water or braised. It should be washed thoroughly in warm water. Some of the arteries and veins may be cut away. A savory bread stuffing may be placed in the cavity in beef heart. Then it is braised, that is, cooked like a pot-roast.

To cook it in water, cover the heart with water to which one teaspoon salt for each quart of water has been added and cook at a simmering temperature until tender. Beef hearts require about three to three and one-half hours. Veal, lamb and pork hearts, which are much smaller, require about two and one-half hours.

Beef Heart Supplies Iron

Here's an unusual and attractive way to serve beef heart. The heart is cooked like a pot-roast. Long, slow cooking makes it deliciously tender. Steamed rice and buttered peas are arranged in a border about the heart. Brown gravy accompanies it. Baking powder biscuits are good with this combination. Heart ranks next to liver as an important source of iron in the diet.

Beefsteak and Kidney Pie.

1 beef kidney
1½ cups water
1 pound round steak
2 tablespoons fat
Salt and pepper
Biscuit dough

Wash kidney, slice and cut into pieces. Place in a saucepan and add 1 cup water. Cover and cook slowly about three-quarters of an hour, or until tender. Cut steak into strips and brown in fat. Add one-half cup water, cover and simmer thirty minutes. Combine steak and kidney. Season. Thicken gravy with flour mixed with water to form a smooth paste. Line a baking dish with biscuit dough. Pour in cooked meat and gravy. Cover with additional biscuit dough. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) about thirty minutes or until nicely browned.

Liver Fricassee.

1 pound sliced liver
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup flour
¼ cup bacon drippings
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 medium green peppers
6 small white onions
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 can hominy
2 tablespoons butter

Wash and dry liver. Dredge with seasoned flour. Brown in hot fat. Add tomatoes, peppers, onions and seasonings. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes, or until vegetables are done. Drain hominy. Add butter. Season and heat. Serve with fricassee.

MISS LOUISE ENGLISH BRIDE OF SATURDAY

Exchanges Vows With J. Richard Smith In Open Ceremony Performed At First Methodist Church Over Week-End.

OPEN church was observed Saturday afternoon at the wedding of Miss Anita Louise English, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude B. English, Park avenue west road, and J. Richard Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, West Fourth street road, which took place before the altar of First Methodist church. Rev. E. G. Corwin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Shortly before 2:30, the hour of the wedding, Miss Kathryn Ann Huber took her place at the organ. The program of music contained four that have become traditional with use, "At Dawning," "Dreams," "Indian Love Call" and "Liebstraum."

Miss English entered on the arm of her older brother, Paul A. English, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was a lovely one of white slipper satin, made with a semi-formal train. The sleeves were puffed and there was a double bustle effect at the back. A wide girdle gave it an old-fashioned, high-waisted appearance. A fingertip veil was fastened to a Juliet cap embroidered in seed pearls. A single strand of matched pearls was her only adornment.

Her bouquet was a shower of white pompons with cascades of lilies-of-the-valley.

Her only attendant was Mrs. Leo C. Mowrey who served as matron of honor. Mrs. Mowrey's gown was of polka purple taffeta, with full bodice and skirt. The floor-length, sweeping skirt was trimmed in bands of velvet of matching shade, while the shoulder length veil, held by a bow at the top of the head, was in cyclamen, a color carried out in her shoes. Her bouquet was a Colonial arrangement of deep pink roses that blended with the cyclamen, and pompons.

Ushers were Leo C. Mowrey, Robert W. English, a brother of the bride, Michael L. Bayer and Robert H. Smith, a brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. English chose a gown of grape for her daughter's wedding, with black accessories and a corsage of Roosevelt roses, while Mrs. Smith, mother of the bridegroom, wore a flame blue dress with black accessories and gardenia shoulderette.

The church altar was banked with greens and there were two baskets of white chrysanthemums and two seven-branch candelabra which formed a background for the simple service.

Immediately after the ceremony there was a reception for members of the families and a few intimate friends at the Susie Janis home. The buffet table was centered with the bride's bouquet and a tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Smith has been a stenographer at the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company for several years and Mr. Smith is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

The couple left on a short wedding trip late Saturday, the bride attired in a brown woolen travel suit with white blouse and all brown accessories. After Nov. 1 they will be at home at their newly furnished apartment on Park avenue west road.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, Oct. 23.

Lucy, dear:

You should have been there—at the Ohio Newspaper Women's 37th annual convention at the Biltmore hotel in Dayton this past week-end, because really, Lucy, it was just about the very nicest and most exciting thing I've ever attended. . . . With our registration cards Friday evening, we each received a very plain white box . . . . so just imagine our surprise, when upon opening it, we found, not candy as we'd expected, but all kinds of favors — five shades of face powder, lipstick, colonge, a makeup kit, a leather notepad and pencil!

Marianne

* * * * *

WE STARTED out with a dinner party at the Dayton Country club that evening given by the Dayton units of General Motors corporation. . . . The banquet tables were especially unusual in their decorations, Lucy — the floral centerpieces were attractive arrangements of pink, white and lavender pompons and wild berries in a deep purple shade. . . . Tall white tapers in crystal candelabra lighted the tables, and they were decorated with clusters of Tokay grapes—so in due time, we all proceeded to eat the decorations! And then, as if their party wasn't grand enough General Motors presented us each with a lovely compact—black enamel with a checked top of black and white mother-of-pearl.

* * * * *

A feature of Saturday morning's business session, was Francine Post—a talking mannequin from the Cincinnati Post. . . . She was introduced by Joy Hearn of the Columbus Citizen—and we thought Joy was a ventriloquist until we learned that the "gal behind Francine" was Mary Catherine Wersel, who talked for the dummy, which was wired for sound. . . . Joy has just returned from Europe and the Paris openings, so she gave us all the weeks to come.

* * * * *

FOLLOWING the contest luncheon at the Van Cleve hotel that noon Peter Grant, WLW news commentator, interviewed a few of the prize-winners (including our own Jane Williams) for a national broadcast. . . . Then after the formal banquet that evening, Grant interviewed our convention speaker, Doris Fleeson (who with her husband, John O'Donnell, is head of the New York News bureau at Washington, D. C.) for his 11 o'clock broadcast.

* * * * *

And speaking of Miss Fleeson, Lucy, I mustn't neglect to tell you what a charming person she is—with her dark brown hair combed in soft waves, sparkling dark brown eyes and a completely appealing personality. . . . She wore an attractive dinner dress which combined a black crepe skirt and a bright Roman-striped blouse.

* * * * *

And while we're on the subject of clothes, Lucy, the gals at the convention were really decked out in some smart ones! There was none of this proverbial man-tailored suit, shirt, felt hat and flat-heeled shoes in evidence even for a minute. . . . Why, at the banquet you never saw such glamour gals—Charlotte Sherwood of the Columbus Citizen looked lovely in a knife-pleated gown of petal pink crepe . . . while another formal with a knife-pleated skirt was the one of pale green chiffon, which Virginia Sturm of Dayton wore. . . . Helen Allyn of the Cleveland Press, who has been elected head of the association for the next two years, complimented her dark beauty by wearing a dinner gown of American Beauty crepe fashioned with front and back fullness, a girdled waist and silver kid trim.

* * * * *

The daytime dress that Joy Hearn was wearing at the fashion talk that morning was just about the newest thing I've seen—it combined black and brown (a mid-victorian idea, which is being revived by Paris designers) and was more attractive than it sounds with much shirring and a striking gold costume necklace.

* * * * *

A BREAKFAST at the Miami hotel brought the convention to a close yesterday morning . . . when Robert E Segal, editorial director of the Chillicothe Newspapers, Inc., was the speaker, and we all received pretty shoulder corsages of fall tinted pompons

* * * * *

If you like Red Nichols and his orchestra as well as I do, Lucy, you'll realize how pleased I was to find that they were playing at the Biltmore while we were there. . . . And even more so when Red, himself, came to our table, asked our musical request and presented us each with a "red" nickel. . . . Yes, Lucy, that's what I said, a "red" nickel—all the nickels at the hotel are red—even the ones they give in change—and they do it (not with mirrors) but with a coat of red nail polish! And I think I'll keep my "red" nickel for good luck in a cute little tooled leather coin purse—which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presented to us.

* * * * *

OH YES, and who do you think was the first person to greet us Mansfielders upon our arrival? Paul Williams, our former Chamber of Commerce secretary, who now has that post in Dayton . . . And he's quite jubilant over the fact that the Chamber of Commerce there has brought the first new industry to the city in ten years.

* * * * *

And that winds up the convention news, Lucy—I still wish you could have been there . . . Next week I'll have lots of local news for you again I promise.

Lovingly,

Marianne
